MILITARY MONEY BILL

House Upholds Plan To Cut Armed Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Thursday night passed a $31,488,206,000 military appropriation bill after upholding President Eisenhower's plans to reduce armed service strength.

A roll call vote was 382-0.

As the measure went to the Senate it provided for a cut of 107,300 in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps during the 12 months starting July 1. The Air Force would be increased by 5,000, from 970,000 to 975,000, during the same period, leaving the over-all reduction at 102,300.

With money left over from previous appropriations, the new bill would give the Defense Department $43,081,000,000 for the coming fiscal year.

Amendments designed to prevent the manpower cuts were shouted down in a rapid series of voice votes.

Eisenhower's military program calls for a total armed force of 2,859,000 by June 30, 1956, compared with 2,961,300 this June 30.

The Army would take the brunt of this cut—87,000 men.

The unsuccessful fight to block the Army-Navy-Marine Corps cuts was led by Rep. Flood (D-Pa) who said he was not saber rattling but believed in the Theodore Roosevelt dictum: "Let's tread softly and carry a big stick."

Flood said the administration's main argument for cutting the armed forces was to get a balanced budget, and he added:

"That's a sham, you know the budget won't be balanced."

Flood picked up some Democratis supporters, including Reps. Andrews of Alabama and Price of Illinois, but he was outnumbered by members of both parties.

Rep. Cannon (D-Mo), chairman of the Appropriations Committee, told the House the next war would be decided in three or four days—"at most a week,"—and he said the Army and Navy would not have time to get into full action.

"What could we do with three or four more divisions?" he asked. "We wouldn't possibly use them."

Cannon said the administration program emphasizes air power, with swift and massive retaliation against an aggressor, as well as strong reserve force.

Rep. Taber of New York, top Republican on the Appropriations Committee, said the bill followed Eisenhower's recommendations and urged the House not to "run out on the greatest military leader in the world."

MIGs Outnumber Jets Four To One In Attack Tuesday

KUNSAN, Korea (AP)—U. S. Sabre Jet pilots, who turned the cold war hot for a few minutes Tuesday, said Thursday the Chinese Communist MIG force from which the attackers came, outnumbered them four to one.

They said there were at least 32 MIGs in the force. From 12 to 17 MIGs attacked the 8 Sabres off the west coast of North Korea while the rest of the Chinese Reds flew high cover.

The Air Force said the MIGs attacked the Sabres on a patrol flight. It reported the Sabres knocked down two MIGs, probably bagged two more, and returned to base without a scratch.

In Tokyo, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U. S. Far East commander, ordered a strong protest laid before the Military Armistice Commission against "the hostile and illegal attack."

In Peiping, the official Chinese People's Daily asserted U. S. Sabres invaded China's territorial air. It called this "part of the criminal plan of U. S. aggression to prevent the liberation of Formosa by intimidating the Chinese people."

Lt. Col. Robert E. Dawson, Dayton, Ohio, squadron commander, told a news conference the Sabres never were closer than 25 miles to Chinese territory and flew over no Red islands, as Peiping charged.

"It was impossible for us to make a hostile act toward them," he said. "They were above us. But if they're going to come down and shoot at us and think it's for fun, they're just plain crazy."

CURFEW — AND NO MISTAKE

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—Youngsters in this sprawling industrial city of three million will have no excuses for failing to hear the 10 p.m. curfew.

A large bell tolls and the sound is broadcast over every local radio station and is piped through loudspeakers all over Osaka.

May Resume Polio Inoculations Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spokesmen for the U. S. Public Health Service indicated Thursday that — if all goes well — the signal may be given Friday for limited resumption of inoculations with the Salk polio vaccine.

They said they expected to hear within hours from a scientific team re-testing vaccine made by Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit.

If the report from Detroit is favorable and if Public Health officials here concur, they added, there is likely to be quick action to release batches of the Parke-Davis product previously approved and now in the hands of doctors.

At the beginning of the week the Public Health Service urged states to suspend their inoculation programs until federal officials had rechecked the safeguards being used by drug firms producing the serum. These doublechecks began at Parke, Davis Wednesday and will be extended to the other pharmaceutical houses.

The Public Health spokesmen, who declined use of their names, said there probably would not be any official announcement on the situation Thursday night.

Sentiment grew in Congress Thursday to give the President broad discretionary powers to control the distribution and price of Salk polio vaccine.

Many members of Congress want to clamp on immediate controls to make sure the limited supply will go to children who need it most and at a fair price. The administration is reluctant to impose controls unless they are absolutely necessary.

More than five million school children have been inoculated with the Salk vaccine since it was pronounced a safe immunizing agent last month. According to the latest figures of the Public Health Service, 64 of the children have come down with polio since being vaccinated.

The development of these cases apparently was a major factor in the decision to go back and check over manufacturing methods employed by the six companies licensed to turn out the serum.

But both President Eisenhower and Surgeon Gen. Leonard Scheele, chief of the Public Health Service, have reiterated their faith in the vaccine and described the suspension of inoculations as just an extra measure of caution.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), a senior Republican member of the House Banking committee who usually opposes federal controls, said the idea of standby controls seemed to be a "happy comprise" in the situation.

Elbe Vets Mark ReunionIn Moscow With Feast, Drink

MOSCOW (AP) — Marshall Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet chief of staff, was host Thursday night at a three-hour banquet to nine visiting American veterans of the U. S.-Soviet 1945 Elbe linkup. As vodka and champagne flowed, he toasted the "friendship and mutual understanding" of the American and Russian peoples.

During the banquet Sokolovsky summoned this reporter to his table for a private toast.

"Well," he said, "did you get an answer to that question you asked me Monday night at the Czechoslovak reception about who is going to be named joint commander of Eastern (Communist) forces at the Warsaw conference?"

"Not yet," I replied. "Is it Konev?"

"Well, I can tell you this," Sokolovsky replied smiling. "NATO commander Gruenther is going to be pleased by our choice."

Marshal Ivan S. Konev is the Soviet deputy defense minister. U. S. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther is supreme Allied commander in Europe.

Six Publishing Groups Named In Antitrust Suit

NEW YORK (AP)—Six publishing and advertising groups were named Thursday in a civil antitrust suit, charged with illegally channeling national advertising through about 1,000 agencies.

At stake is a time-honored custom whereby agencies handle millions of dollars worth of advertising each year for the nation's publishers, retaining for themselves a fixed 15 per cent commission.

The government called this "unreasonable restraint" of trade and demanded that publishers be given the right to shop around for an agency with a commission that best suits them.

The defendants have known for weeks that the federal charge was in the offing. It was filed Thursday in federal district court in Manhattan. The complaint covers a 38-year period.

Defendants are the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies, American Newspaper Publishers Assn., Publishers Assn. of New York City, Associated Business Publications, Inc., Periodical Publishers Assn. of America, and Agricultural Publishers Assn.

The suit was aimed at the method whereby the nation's biggest advertisers place copy with agencies for newspaper or magazine publication.

Plan To Release Totalitarian Data To Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two retired high-ranking FBI fficials and two lawyers who used to be FBI agents unveiled Thursday a plan to make all available data on totalitarianism readily accessible to the public.

The project calls for a free library to be financed by public contributions.

"We felt there was a need for a public library where people could get full and complete information on totalitarian groups — groups whose activities are inimical to the interests of the United States," said Stanley J. Tracy. Tracy retired last year as an assistant FBI director.

IRON RULE OF FEAR

Red Vietminh Troops Move Into Haiphong

HAIPHONG (Friday) (AP) — Thousands of Communist Vietminh troops swept into the northwest section of this big seaport Thursday and immediately imposed an iron rule of fear.

Occupation of Haiphong will be completed Friday, ending French colonialism in North Indochina. But the Vietminh did not wait for the final day to strike terror in northwest Haiphong.

The occupying army of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh ordered a roundup of all Vietnamese who had collaborated with the French and Vietnamese forces during the long war.

The threat of arrest and imprisonment cast a black shadow over the lives of Haiphong's 236,000 citizens. For in this wartime port of entry for mountains of U. S. war supplies sent to the French, there were thousands who had helped in dozens of ways.

It was black Friday for the French expeditionary forces. The force did all it could to win a war that often lacked sympathy in Paris high councils and among French interests which had tapped the territory's wealth for nearly 90 years.

The thousands of elite Vietminh troops their bayonets gleaming, march into Haiphong at dawn Friday.

Swiftly they will take military control of the city—their last big prize in the nearly eight years of bitter guerrilla war that ended in stunning defeat for the French a year ago at Dien Bien Phu.

French troops will leave in trucks for Do Son peninsula in the South. There they will leave for Saigon in South Viet Nam—and France.

The Communist Vietminh occupation of Haiphong puts the red flag with the yellow star in the center over a vast territory from the south border of Red China to the 17th Parallel. This covers half of the Indochinese state of Viet Nam.

Ho's Vietminh won these rich lands by diplomacy at the Geneva conference last July as the price for peace. Now the Vietminh look to elections in South Viet Nam next spring.

They are confident the Vietnamese there will prefer Ho Chi Minh to any government backed by the United States and Western powers. Thus they hope to control all Viet Nam, largest of the Indochinese states.

Ho Chi Minh now controls a total population of nearly 13 million Vietnamese out of Viet Nam's total of around 25 million.

Here are other gains in the long struggle against the French:

1. The crushing — probably for all time — of French military, politial, economic, social and cultural domination of Northern Indochina which began around 1863.

2. Replacement of the teachings of democracy by communism in the centuries old capital of Viet Nam — the City of Hanoi.

3. Control over the sprawling Red River Delta of 8,000 square miles. It is one of the richest rice bowls in all Asia.

4. Control of the big Hanggay coal mines northeast of Haiphong with a potential production of two

Fewer Men Now, Census Bureau Study Reveals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau confirmed Thursday what every unmarried woman knows: Men are getting scarcer.

This was a side product of a bureau study of the increase in urban and rural civilian populations from April, 1950, when the last general census was taken, to April, 1954.

The study disclosed that both in the cities and on the farm the number of men compared with the number of women declined.

There are still more men than women on the farms, however, and fewer men than women in the cities.

The bureau said that in this period a long-term trend to more rapid growth of city population than rural population was reversed. In the four years, it said, the rural civilian population increased 6.3 per cent while population in the cities went up 5.6 per cent. In the 1940-1950 period city population increased about 20 per cent while rural population went up only 8 per cent.

Hamburger? Yes -- Army Has Some, 1,789,000 Pounds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army reported to Congress Thursday it has a lot of canned hamburger on hand, too—but less than it really needs.

A House Government Operations subcommittee, which has been raising critical questions about military hamburgers, was told the Army had 1,789,000 pounds of the canned product on April 1.

But, said Brig. Gen. Alfred D. Denniston, deputy quartermaster general, that is "against reserve requirements of 2,325,000 pounds" that would be needed in event of mobilization.

The Army didn't get nearly as brisk a going-over as the Navy on hamburger supplies.

What stirred up the subcommittee was a Hoover Commission task force report that the Navy had a 60-year supply of canned hamburger as of last August—886,020 pounds of it.

The Navy has disputed this interpretation as not taking into account that 533,874 pounds of the total are set aside for combat reserves. The rest it said, represented only a 44-month supply on hand last August, adding that reductions since then brought the figure down to a five-month supply last March.

Starts Sentence For Death Of Aquatot Daughter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Russell Tongay began serving a 10-year term in jail Thursday for causing the death of his Aquatot daughter, Kathy, in coaching her for swimming performances.

The burly former Coast Guardsman surrendered at the county jail Thursday morning and was placed behind bars to wait for transfer to the state prison at Raiford, Fla.

Tongay, 39, coched his Aquatot children, Kathy, then 5, and Bubba, 9, in swimming performances that made them famous.

He was convicted of causing Kathy's death by ordering her to dive from a 33-foot diving board in 1953. Medical examiners said the high dive resulted in injuries that killed her.

Bubba has continued his swimming and competed in Florida meets this winter.

Tongay's wife, a schoolteacher who stood by him in the long series of legal battles, was not present Thursday when he gave up at the jail. Tongay lost his legal fight to avoid prison when the Florida Supreme Court barred the way to further rehearings.

Smog Blankets Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Smog plagued the Los Angeles area Thursday for the second straight day. The Weather Bureau indicated the eye-irritating attack will continue at least through Saturday.

Meteorologists foresee no immediate break in the weather to lift the temperature inversion "lid" which is preventing air pollutants from escaping from the mountain-rimmed Los Angeles basin.

When the normal temperature pattern is inverted certain layers of air above the city are hotter than the air at ground level. This prevents smog-laden air from rising and dispersing.

The smog is worst in Pasadena.

Judge Still Thinks Backslider He Aided Can Come Back Up

CHICAGO (AP)—William G. Wood, who drank away a law practice and detoured off Skid Row toward reform, has fallen off the water wagon.

Cleanly shaven and neatly dressed, the 65-year-old lawyer stood out Thursday among the morning collection of W. Madison Street bums in Monroe Street Police Court where he appeared on a disorderly conduct charge.

It was in this same court last winter that Judge Hyman Feldman recognized one of the bums as Wood and recalled that he once was a talented attorney and law school teacher. Judge Feldman personally undertook Wood's rehabilitation.

"Good morning, judge," Wood said. "I'm sorry to be here now."

"You are no more sorry than I am to see you this way," the judge replied, and continued:

"You were the first case to hit me when I came here. I felt that you could stage a comeback. I still think you can do it.

"When a man has fought a problem like you have, and has done what you have done, he deserves credit. You have done an admirable job."

The judge referred to Wood's work at the law since the morning Feldman found him in the lineup of derelicts. Feldman personally paid Wood $5 a day to assist him as an adviser to the court. When Wood carried out those duties satisfactorily for several weeks, Feldman got him a job as librarian in the state's attorney's office.

"You have been a symbol to this street, Bill," the judge went on. "The men felt that if Bill Wood could do it, so could they. If what you did has helped one man, it's done some good."

Wood was the last defendant called before the bench. The few stragglers in the courtroom watched through eyes bleary from Wednesday night's boozing. They were waiting mainly for a free lunch as guests of the Salvation Army.

The court ordered Wood examined by a psychiatrist and set bond high enough to keep Wood in custody. The next hearing will be May 26.

Asked by newsmen how he happened to be found drunk in front of 641 W. Madison St., Wood said simply, "I slipped."

Gain Accord On Austria

Signing Will Make It A Neutral Nation

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The big Four agreed Thursday on final terms for an Austrian treaty of independence.

This country's foreign minister, mindful of an impending top-level East-West meeting, called it "a turning point in world history."

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov will sign the treaty here Sunday which makes Austria a neutral in the cold war.

Ratification will mean independence for the first time in 17 years for this nation of seven million with an area roughly equivalent to Maine or South Carolina.

Ninety days after ratification, 70,000 occupation troops of the four powers who have been in Austria for a decade will be withdrawn. Ratification is expected to be completed by Dec. 31.

For a while Thursday it looked as though a deadlock over a clause dealing with economic concessions of Russia to Austria might block or delay the treaty signing.

But a communique from the Big Four ambassadors after a meeting declared "full unanimity has been reached on all articles of the draft treaty." It added that by the end of this week the Big Four foreign ministers will meet here with representatives of Austria "for the examination and signature of the Austrian state treaty."

The ambassadors of the Western Powers bumped into the deadlock three days ago when the Russians balked against revising Article 35 of the treaty to include recent concessions to the Austrians made in talks in Moscow last month. These involved return of the great Zisterdorf oil fields and the Danube Shipping Co. to Austria.

The ambassadors finally decided to make the concessions an annex to the treaty, climaxing with success nine days of negotiations.

Foreign Minister Leopold Figl told the Austrian people that Sunday's signing will not only be a significant date in the "history of Austria, but it will also be a turning point in world history."

The ambassadors did not take up Thursday the question of guaranteeing Austrian neutrality, and this may be discussed by the foreign ministers in their weekend meeting here.

Shoulders' Bid For Parole Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. parole Board Thursday denied the parole application of Louis Shoulders, former St. Louis police lieutenant, serving time for perjury in connection with the 1953 Bobby Greenlease kidnaping case.

Shoulders, 57, was convicted at Kansas City in early 1954 of giving false testimony before a federal grand jury investigating what became of the $600,000 which the Greenlease family vainly paid for the return of 6-year-old Bobby.

Shoulders was the police officer who arrested Carl Austin Hall, one of the kidnapers.

The police officer was given a three-year term in connection with his testimony on the handling of the money Hall had. He started serving time May 21, 1954. He would be eligible for parole May 20, after serving one-third of his term.

Praise Women's Clubs' Support Of Safety Campaigns

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs drew praise Thursday for its part in supporting safety campaigns.

Paul Jones, director of public information for the National Safety Council, told delegates to the federation convention their help has been invaluable.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "this holds true for the whole general Federation of Women's Clubs and for many other women's organizations."

Jones said the traffic death toll is gradually being lessened. He said it came down by 2,000 in 1954 from 1953, and that the mileage death rate in the United States today is the lowest in the nation's history.

The convention will end Thursday night with the annual banquet, and installation of two vice presidents and a secretary, whose nominations were unopposed.

Diem Asks French Move Troops To Red Border Area

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A government spokesman said Thursday Premier Ngo Dinh Diem is asking France to shift French troops north to the Communist border area or withdraw them from South Viet Nam. In their present stations, the spokesman declared, the troops handicap Diem's efforts to establish a sound administration.

The French expeditionary corps, numbering between 70,000 and 80,000, now is based chiefly in the Saigon area, at Tourane in central Viet Nam, and at Cap St. Jacques, on the coast southeast of the cpital.

The spokesman said Diem instructed his brother, roving Ambassador Ngo Dinh Luyen, to ask Paris to move the corps to the 17th Parallel or take it out of the country. The 17th Parallel roughly marks the line dividing South Viet Nam and Communist-ruled North Viet Nam.

The bulk of the French population and holdings in Viet Nam are concentrated in the areas where the French troops are based. For this reason, prospects of any immediate French compliance with Diem's request appeared slim.

The spokesman, from Diem's office, said the French troops will be a source of friction and an object of Nationalist resentment so long as they remain where they are.

Editorial Comment

TEN YEARS AFTER

Ten years have gone by since the end of World War II, and the free world has not gained the golden peace men believed they were fighting for.

Seldom has this globe seen a more turbulent decade in a time of nominal peace. Not even the Thirties, age of the Great Depression and stormy prelude to the Great War, stirred such deep fears or stretched men's nerves so taut.

The supreme objective of World War II was to crush Hitler, the noisy tyrant who had stood astride nearly the whole of Europe. When he toppled into the dust, that was to be the signal for a new and firmer grasp on the elusive elements of peace.

How shocked free men were, then, to find that in Hitler's stead had quickly risen another tyranny, Russian communism. People in the victorious Western lands, accustomed to viewing the Russians as their wartime allies, turned slowly to an awareness that they had become an avowed enemy.

Across the world in Asia, Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime, torn by strife and corroded by corruption, buckled and collapsed before the onslaughts of a Chinese Red army emboldened and freshly equipped. The second great nation passed under the Communist yoke. And the Red flag flew from the China Sea to the borders of West Germany.

Free men awoke to the peril in Europe when plucky Czechoslovakia fell. In Asia they did not gauge the danger until Communists invaded South Korea in 1950.

America and its Western friends banded together in unprecedented peacetime alliance to form NATO and thus erect a defensive barrier to check the westward flow of Russian communism in Europe. In Asia, this country and others working through the United Nations rushed to defend Korea before the Red tide engulfed the continent.

So, here stand free men a decade after Hitler killed himself in his Berlin bunker. But, besieged though they may be by communism, fear-struck though they are by the prospect of a nuclear war, they yet struggle fiercely to save liberty for themselves and the world.

Ten years to the dot, the once-hated Germans have been freed of the conqueror's yoke and drawn into the new combat on the free world's side. Long since, Germany's past partner in war—Japan—joined the Western cause. Determinedly, the fight goes on.

Some men, looking upon the excruciating trials of the years 1945-1955, might say we would never have had all this if America had stayed out of World War II, or if no one had contested Hitler.

They forget that a Hitler unchallenged would have dominated Europe, its vast reservoirs of men and resources, its colossal possessions. Thus gorged with power and might he could ultimately have leapt the oceans to take Africa, South America and even the United States into his orbit of tyranny.

Today China is gone again, and so is part of Europe. But at least the West is still free and some of Asia is awake to the peril. Enough is left to feed men's hopes that the new tyranny will not win. We are better off for having fought and won World War II, despite the dismal decade just closed.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — He sat there—the man across the luncheon table, small, dark-eyed, polite talking, with a whip in his mind.

The whip is the one with which he lashes mankind and himself for failing to dream as big as people can, and for not attaining the dreams they do have.

Asked when he was most happy in his life, William Faulkner, student of failure and recent Pulitzer Prize winner, started off:

"Success comes too easy in this country. There are many ways to make money and they all spell success."

Faulkner may appear to some as the intellectual's Mickey Spillane. But his reverence is for a man like Thomas Wolfe, whom he calls the most magnificent failure of his generation, because "He tried to do more than flesh and blood could do. He tried to reduce the human heart into a paragraph."

"We measure greatness by the distance between the dream and the failure. We all fail. None of us match the dream."

Faulkner, who is a small man with obviously fastidious tastes, grew up with physical and literary behemoths, such as Wolfe and Hemingway.

"In our generation we were all failures. Myself, Dos Passos, Hemingway, Wolfe. Wolfe was the finest failure."

Faulkner, when asked how many books he has written, gives a vague answer.

"Somewhere between 18 and 22, probably 20."

When asked how many books he has sold, he says he doesn't know but is going to ask his publisher about those things.

Faulkner is an extremely deliberate craftsman. Among other things, he has delivered the plot lines for 12 movies. The latest is "Land of the Pharoahs," a Warner Brothers picture.

After winning the Nobel Prize for Literature, he was given the Pulitzer Award this year for his novel, "A Fable." This rather surprised him, since it was published a year before.

Faulkner, one of the most successful writers in America, has an outspoken antipathy for the bare bones of success.

"I was born to be a tramp. I was happiest when I had nothing. I had a trench coat then with big pockets. It would carry a pair of socks, a condensed Shakespeare and a bottle of whiskey. Then I was happy and I wanted nothing and I had no responsibility."

I asked him what makes people grow old. He said idleness, boredom. It kills them. They die because they don't have enough to do.

"Doing, nothing — sitting down and vegetating — is no good unless you can make it an actual occupation.

"There are people who can do without a job in this world and stay healthy, but they have to be used to it."

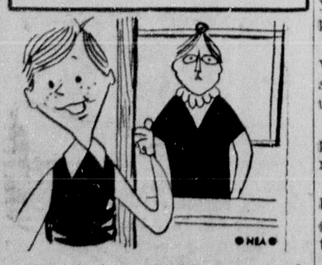
Asked what was his greater pleasure in life now, Faulkner replied:

"Thinking up an idea for a book before I realize this one really isn't going to be as good as I want it to be, either.

"This time you say I'll catch the answer to the whole riddle — why man is here — put it down in black and white so everyone can see it and understand. Before you can do this, you break the pencil and throw it away."

From the way he talks, you might get the idea his Mississippi farm is strewn with broken pencils — until you take a look at that book list.

Manners Make Friends



It's a bad idea to let your school-age child refer to his teachers as "Old lady so-and-so" or in other disrespectful terms. For that only encourages him to feel free to show lack of respect for adults. It also encourages him to think of anyone in authority in uncomplimentary terms.

Freedom of speech is one thing and disrespect is something else again.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—How is the antipolio vaccine going to be distributed so that those who need it first get it first, whether or no they can pay for it? That's one of the biggest, unsolved problems in the fight against polio.

The government—that is, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, headed by Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby—had time to plan for this problem before any vaccine was distributed. Apparently it did nothing.

It still has produced no answers although this week Mrs. Hobby is expected to make recommendations to President Eisenhower. She is not likely to suggest federal control. She has been against that.

On April 12 she gave permission to drug manufacturers to start distributing the vaccine. This was done a few hours after announcement that last summer's test on several hundred thousand children had been 60 to 90 per cent effective.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has contracted with manufacturers to produce vaccine to give free shots to nine million children in the first and second grades. All other people will have to pay for shots unless somehow they can get them free.

What of those in the susceptible age group (1 to 9) who can't afford to pay for shots by a private physician and have no other way of getting the vaccine? There is no answer on that.

And what assurance is there those in the most susceptible age group will get shots before any of the short-supply vaccine is given to older people? There is no nationwide plan on that either.

It would seem that Mrs. Hobby's department could have done what the polio foundation did: take a chance the April 12 report would be favorable and prepare for distribution in advance.

On Eisenhower's instructions Mrs. Hobby called a meeting April 22 of doctors, health officials and drug manufacturers. They recommended the vaccine be allocated among the states, without federal controls, on the basis of state populations in the 1 to 9 age group. It would be left up to the States to plan the distribution.

Meanwhile, as it became clear there would be a vaccine shortage extending into 1956, members of Congress began demanding that distribution not be left to chance. Bills were introduced to impose federal controls.

Eisenhower told a news conference May 4: "There will never be any child in the United States denied this emergency protection for want of ability to pay. Of that we are absolutely certain."

Shortly afterward his press secretary James C. Hagerty said if a situation developed where some children could not get vaccine for lack of money, the President would immediately ask Congress for authority to buy up the whole supply.

But such an idea, before it became a reality, would take time (1) to be aware of such situations and verify them, (2) get authority from Congress and (3) set up federal distribution.

And time is one of the prime factors in the antipolio fight, since the peak polio season arrives with the summer months.

Sulfa and Antibiotics Help Cut Meningitis Death Toll

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

"A nine-months-old youngster in our neighborhood" writes Mrs. O, "has died of meningitis. Two of my children were in contact with this child. I was under the impression that there were two kinds of meningitis—spinal and tubercular—and that both were contagious. Is this correct or are there other kinds of meningitis too?"

There are actually several kinds of meningitis. It should be understood that the name comes from the delicate lining surrounding the spinal cord and brain known as the meninges. Any inflamation of the meninges is known as meningitis; the most likely source of inflamation is infection with some germ though there is at least one type of such inflamation in which no germ is present.

Of The Germs which can cause meningitis the most important is the one known as a meningococcus which causes epidemic meningitis (also known as meningococcus meningitis). The germ which causes pneumonia—the pneumococcus—can also cause meningitis. This variety years ago was almost always fatal but now can frequently be treated with success.

The tubercle bacillus may cause tuberculosis meningitis and in fact there are several other germs which may cause inflamation of this membrane. Most forms are contagious but only to a limited degree, with the exception of epidemic meningitis.

It Is Not Possible to discuss all of these varieties except to say that most of them can be treated much more successfully today than in the past thanks to the development of penicillin and other antibiotic drugs and the sulfe preparations.

Another type of meningitis is that which is known as influenzal meningitis. Actually the germ responsible has no definite relation to influenza, Influenza meningitis is rather common in children although rare in grownups.

Until recently most of those who were stricken with this disease died. In one hospital between 1920 and 1931 only one survived out of seventy-eight.

After This A serum was developwhich enabled thirty-one of another group of 201 to recover. Now other new discoveries have made possible still better results in the treatment of this killer of infants and children. Part of the improvement is caused by the development of better serums, the most powerful being one prepared from rabbits. Also the use of the sulfa drugs has helped a great deal.

How great a chance has been brought about in the chances for these children is shown by a report of twenty-eight children with influenzal meningitis. Twenty-four of them recovered completely and only four died. The treatment involved the use of serum and of sulfa drugs combined. Other good results with antibiotics, such as penicillin either alone or combined with sulfa or serums, have been reported. In general meningitis of almost all kinds is a far less serious hazard than formerly.

Danish Blue Cheese Tops Fruit Pies Deliciously

DANISH BLUE CHEESE ROSETTES combine wonderfully with latticed blueberry pie.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

In Denmark we learned to use their wonderful blue cheese with fruit and berry pies. The other day we tried a litticed blueberry pie with little rosettes of Danish blue around the edges of the crust. The combination of flavors was delightful.

Lattice Blueberry Pie
(Make pastry for two-crust pie of desired size)

Nine-Inch Pie: Two and one-half cups berries and juice (No. 2 can packed in syrup), ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Mix sugar and cornstarch together. (Add spice, if desired.) Drain berries well. Pour juice into saucepan. Cook over moderate heat until it comes to boil. Pour quickly over the sugar-cornstarch mixture. Return to saucepan, cook slowly, stirring constantly until mixture begins to thicken. Add berries and lemon juice.

Cool, pour into pastry-lined pan. Dot with bits of butter or margarine. Cover with strips of latticed pie crust or top crust. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 30 to 35 minutes until top is delicately browned. Cool, decorate with rosettes of Danish blue cheese topping.

Danish Blue Cheese Topping

One-half cup Danish blue cheese, ½ package (3-ounce size) cream cheese, heavy cream to moisten.

Mash cheese together until well blended, add cream, one tablespoonful at a time until mixture is consistency to force through a pastry bag, or cake decorating tube. Decorate top of pie with ornamental rosettes of the cheese topping.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Broiled salmon steaks, lemon butter, parsley new potatoes, fresh buttered asparagus, enriched bread, butter or margarine, latticed blueberry pie with rosettes of Danish blue cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

WRONG VERDICT

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Immigration officer Armand Hysette, star prosecution witness at a federal court trial, stepped into the corridor for a smoke while a jury was being chosen.

Five minutes later he returned to the courtroom and stared in amazement as Judge Jacob Weinberger asked a jury to announce its verdict.

"Your Honor," blurted Hysette, "there hasn't even been any testimony yet! How can there be a verdict so soon?"

The jurist laughed and told Hysette that while he was smoking, a different jury had returned with a verdict in another case.

States Dodge Attempts To Pass Responsibilities

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Eisenhower administration policy to shove more responsibility back on state governments is having its troubles. They showed up during the two-day conference of state governors in Washington.

In the national defense session, the governors complained that too much of the civil defense job had been given to state and local governments. They wanted the federal government to do more.

On the 101-billion-dollar, long-range highway program, there were strong dissents from the governors on paying for it by a federal tax on gasoline. Some governors felt this was a source of revenue that should be left to the states. But they were all for having the federal government foot the bill for more roads by money grants to the states.

On the Salk polio inoculations, Washington had planned to give the states direct responsibility for distribution of the vaccine to local doctors. Many governors complained this put too great a burden on the states.

The governors heard no reports from Eisenhower administration cabinet officers and economists on the general business situation. But this became a number one topic for consideration when the Democratic governors met separately, after the White House conference was over.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York brought it up. He observed that while production was at record highs, employment wasn't. Bankruptcies were running at record rates. Farm income was at a low level of parity. He blamed it all on the administration's economic program.

THERE WAS CONSIDERABLE political sour grapes in this line, but other governors supported it.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams pointed to record high auto production, along with five per cent unemployment in Michigan.

Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania complained of seven per cent unemployment in his state, along with ten per cent of the nation's 140 surplus labor areas.

He reported this was due largely to drops in coal production. He said the Scranton area had relieved this by bringing in 50 new industries in the last ten years.

But what Governor Leader proposed as a corrective was not more state or local government action. He wanted an extension of federal tax depreciation allowances to industries that located new plants in the areas of greatest unemployment.

There was also a tendency to blame everything on Washington. Gov. Ray Gary of Oklahoma blamed unemployment in the oil fields on the federal government's oil import policy.

On the farm price drops, Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi said that cotton quotas cutting small farmers down to four acres or less made it impossible for them to make a living.

Young Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota said the impact of 75 per cent dairy price supports was most serious. "There is no imaginative, creative planning at the national level," he declared.

THE EISENHOWER ADMINISTRATION planning all along has of course been to decentralize authority from Washington and give the states more responsibility for solving local problems.

For instance: Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, just back from a tour of the dust bowl, is counting on a coming conference at state level to develop more local drought relief programs.

It is the administration formula for letting the states set the unemployment insurance rates and other labor legislation.

The administration policy on aid to education is to give the states major responsibility on school construction.

There is of course still much southern states' rights sentiment for local determination of school segregation policy. But this is almost the only other area in which there is strong support for state, rather than national government control over many local matters.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Carol Richards is giving up the ghost. From now on she's going to sing only for herself.

The red-haired lovely from Rockford, Ill., has earned a nice living by acting as the voice double for film stars.

Does it come as a shock to learn that when Cyd Charisse opens her mouth to warble on the screen, it ain't really Cyd that comes out? It's Carol.

And when Vera-Ellen bursts into song in a movie, you're not hearing Vera-Ellen. That's Carol again.

Hollywood, you see, leaves nothing to chance. If a screen beauty does not have a singing voice that will titillate movie goers, she is provided with one. Sometimes this use of ersatz talent can be carried to extremes.

Once Betsy Drake was cast in a musical called "Dancing in the Dark." Since Miss Drake is not a musical performer, both her singing and dancing were done by other girls. She did her own acting, however.

Carol Richards has performed as singing ghost for Cyd Charisse in "Brigadoon," "Deep in My Heart" and the unreleased "It's Always Fair Weather". She did Vera-Ellen with a lichtenberg accent in "Call Me Madam" and the child-like singing for Betta St. John in "The Robe."

How does she duplicate such a wide variety of voices?

A few years ago, I learned from a Spanish boy how to reproduce accents," she explained. "He taught me how to watch a person's lips when she speaks. Then you can get the same kind of delivery.

"When I did a voice doubling job, I always spent a couple of weeks with the actress. I studied how she talked. Then I always asked to have her on the stage when I was recording. The match could be more exact that way."

But Carol has now put an end to singing behind the scenes. She landed a fine job on Bob Crosby's daily TV show. And she has prospects of getting into pictures with her own face. She made a test at MGM and there have been good reports about it.

The test came about when she was asked to again double for Cyd's voice in "It's Always Fair Weather." She told producer Arthur Freed that she wanted to do singing for herself alone.

"Take my word for it," the producer said, "voice doubling won't do your career any harm. Some day I'll give you a test."

"You've been saying that for years," she countered. "I want to do the test while I'm still able to use my own face."

So they made a deal; Freed got the voice for Cyd; Carol got her test.

The only trouble is that she doesn't know when she'll be able to do films. She is tied up to CBS for five years, and she works from 9 in the morning to around 3:30 in the afternoon every week day. She would have to arrange a leave of absence to accept movies.

Wife's Attitude Toward Mate Can Make or Break Marriage

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

This word of advice is meant especially for young wives just beginning their marriages, but it is never too late for a wife who wants to better her marriage to put it into practice.

The advice is simply this: Never waste time thinking or talking about your husband's faults.

Whoever he is and whatever he is, he is sure to have faults and more of them than you realized when you married him. Just as you, his wife have more faults than he knew about when he married you.

But the way to be happy and to make your husband happy is to accept the faults along with the good qualities as making up a whole person, and then dismiss the faults from your mind and find pride in thinking about all of your husband's good qualities.

He is sure to have many, else you would never have fallen in love with him.

CONCENTRATE ON GOOD POINTS

So get into the habit of thinking about his good points. And when you talk about him, don't mention anything that isn't a good quality.

It is just as easy to build a husband up to your friends and relatives as to tear him down. And it will certainly bring happier results.

The main difference between a happy and an unhappy wife is t[illegible] The happy wife thinks and talks about those qualities in her h[illegible] that make her love and admire him.

The unhappy wife takes her husband's good qualities for gra[illegible] out broods over his every fault and then tries to get symp[illegible] others by sharing with them all she has to put up with because her husband won't do or does do that.

By her own attitude a wife often chooses whether or not she will be a happy wife or a discontented one.

Annual Reports Made At First Baptist Dinner

The annual family dinner meeting of the congregation of the First Baptist church was held in the Fellowship Hall on Wednesday, May 11, at 6:30. The meal was served by the social committee under the direction of Mrs. Dwight Green. New members were welcomed by the moderator, L. B. Turner, and Wayne Herrin, chairman of the board of deacons, and the response was given on behalf of the new members by Archie T. Brownell. Seventy-seven members have been received into the fellowship of the church during the year, 41 of these by baptism.

The clerk reported a total membership of 905, a net gain of 38. The reports show that since the opening of the new building, the Church school attendance has increased 14%. Morning worship attendance also showed a substantial increase.

The financial secretary, C. R. Dowland, reported total receipts of $30,816.01 exclusive of building fund. The treasurer reported disbursements of $33,005.92 with a balance in the treasury of $5,182.51. The finance chairman, A. J. Stewart, reported the results of the Every Member Financial Enlistment to take care of the needs in the current year. A budget was adopted of $27,488.20. The amount subscribed for the year 1955-56, inclusive of the estimated income from Sunday School, Loose Offerings, and Women's Mission Society totals $28,892.96.

The Board of Deacons had expended from the Fellowship Fund for the help of the needy, etc., $421.54. The Church School, Women's Mission Society, Service League, the B.Y.F., and W.W.G. all reported considerable progress and extensive service rendered.

The Advisory Board recommended that Mrs. A. T. Brownell, a member of the American Baptist Women's Foreign Missionary Society Board, be the church's official delegate to the American Baptist Convention meeting in Atlantic City May 17-23. The recommendation was accepted by the church and she was officially made its delegate.

The program of the evening, provided by the Committee, included sacred recordings during the dinner hour and a 30-minute film entitled "Bible on the Table," which was universally appreciated.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Blessed be the Tie that binds our hearts in Christian Love."

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

President Eisenhower is going to have to do a lot of homework in the next several weeks if he goes to meet Bulganin.

Every effort will be made in Washington to make him a walking State Department. He will be briefed and briefed and then briefed some more on all of the things which have gone on in relations with Russia over the years.

The President sounded Wednesday as though he rather expected the top-level discussions to be confined to broad general issues, with any decisions to revolve around areas in which the chiefs of state agree there is a possibility the foreign ministers can get together.

The Russian record, however, suggests that the President better be ready himself with a lot of detail. One of the greatest troubles at Yalta lay in the fact that President Roosevelt, while equipped with a vast array of State Department intelligence memoranda accompanied by advice, chose to work primarily on the broad general line of establishing a cooperative position, first with regard to the Japanese war, and then with regard to postwar problems.

Stalin, on the other hand, had a whole batch of definite postwar objectives, and by obfuscation set himself up to attain them. The Americans learned something from that experience about the way Russians use words like "democracy" and "freedom."

In many ways Eisenhower's task will be easier than Roosevelt's, because he will know definitely that he is dealing with an enemy. Plenty of people told Roosevelt that, too, but he believed he could prevent it from proving true.

One thing Eisenhower may have to do is go back over the road on which Roosevelt stumbled at Yalta—the matter of the fate of subjugated Eastern European nations.

In any consideration of things which might ease the cold war there always lies in the background the fact that the United States can't just pull out of Europe and leave the satellites in salvery. It would undermine her position throughout the world.

When President Truman went to Potsdam the chief matters of concern were procedural—how the Big Three of those days would carry out their administration of conquered territories. A detail was overlooked then which later enabled the Russians to set up their Berlin blockade and create a situation which barely skirted war.

Such inherent dangers are well known to Eisenhower and his advisers. America knows her world political lessons much better than she did ten years ago. The task and responsibility now faced by the President, however, remains monumental.

Beef Again To Be Best Buy At Food Stores This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Beef returns to a prominent place among the better buys in meats in the nation's food stores this weekend.

Markets will be passing on cuts in wholesale beef prices, and some meat specialists say there may be further reductions next week.

Popular features will include prime ribs, steaks, chuck steak or roast and bonless chuck pot roast. Price reductions will vary from two to around six cents a pound.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, looking over the food situation for this month, comments that pork supplies, though not as heavy was in previous months, will continue plentiful through the spring. It adds that high-quality beef will be in seasonal abundance since large numbers of fed cattle are marketed this month.

There's good variety in reasonably-priced vegetables but there have been small increases in the price of lettuce, carrots, cabbage and tomatoes.

Special Services At White Hall Church Sunday

WHITE HALL—Sunday, May 15, has been designated as Recognition Day for all new members of the First Methodist church of White Hall. This occasion is an annual affair to honor those who have entered the membership during the year and to welcome them to a more and better understanding of the church and its concern for them.

The laymen of the church will have full charge of the complete service at the morning worship hour of 10:45. Mr. Robert Jones is acting chairman and has secured the services of some of the talented laymen to participate in the venture which will give attention to the loyal members who were in regular attendance during the "Attendance Crusade" from January to March of the current year. Certificates of loyalty will be issued to all who took part and showed a majority record of attendance during the campaign.

There will be numbers in music by the combined choirs, an address by one of the laymen of the church, presentation of awards to those having earned them, and some special entertainment not yet in complete readiness.

There will be no preaching on that day by reason of the time being consumed by the laymen for honoring the incoming members. The pastor, the Rev. James E. Mahoney, will be present to assist in any way possible but will have no part in the program other than that permitted by the laymen in charge.

The ISD-Chandlerville contest will get under way at 1:00 Daylight time on the JHS athletic field with the Virginia-Routt battles slated for 3:30, or immediately following the first encounter.

Jacksonville High will meet the winner of the ISD-Chandlerville game Monday and Franklin plays the Routt-Virginia winner Tuesday. The finals of the local sub-district will be held Wednesday and the winner of this game journeys to Pittsfield Thursday for the District championship and the right to meet the Springfield winner in the Springfield Sectional.

Red Sox Defeat A's 12-7; Raschi Loser

BOSTON (AP) — The run-starved Boston Red Sox ended the famine Thursday by banging out 15 hits—including home runs by Gene Stephens and Jackie Jensen — for a 12-7 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Gus Zernial hit his ninth and tenth homers of the year good for two runs each and Bill Renna slammed No. 4, a three-run affair, in a losing cause.

Ike Delock, who needed relief by Tom Hurd in the seventh, was credited with his third win of the year against as many defeats for Boston.

Vic Raschi, ex-New York Yankee and St. Louis Cardinal, started and was driven out with a six-hit, seven-run assault in the first two innings.

It was the first victory in three tries for the Red Sox over the A's in the first local appearance of Kansas City Manager Lou Boudreau who piloted Boston last season.

Chuck Dressen Would Change Bonus Rule

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chuck Dressen complaining that some fine baseball potential is being wasted by lack of experience, came up Thursday with a new gimmick for changing the bonus rule.

"Let's change the rule so we can send these kids down to the minors for seasoning," the Washington Senators' manager said. "It hurts baseball when these kids have to learn the game sitting on the bench of a big league team."

Dressen had taken a good look Wednesday at what the rule can do to bonus player Harmon Killebrew, for whom the Senators reportedly paid $30,000.

The 18-year-old Idaho youth's errors at third base, which Dressen attributed to inexperience, were costly to Washington against the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers won 7-0. Killebrew subbed for ailing Ed Yost.

The present bonus rule requires that any player signed for a big cash bonus must remain with his major league club for two seasons.

Under Dressen's plan, a team could send a bonus player to the minors for training but would be required to carry him on its player roster, which is limited to 25.

Thus the Senators would be permitted to farm out Killebrew but could carry only 24 regular players on the squad.

"I don't know a manager who'd be against that idea," Dressen said.

Managers don't make the rules, though. That's up to the club owners.

DOUBLE TAKE

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Patrolman Francis Smitley should get some kind of an award for efficiency. Following a motorist he said was traveling 56 in a 40-mile-per-hour zone, Smitley noticed another car gaining on him from behind. He arrested both drivers for speeding.

Cockell Looks Like Inviting Target For Marciano's Right

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If Don Cockell doesn't show more against Rocky Marciano than he does in the gym, the little fat man will be just another horizontal British heavyweight Monday night at Kezar Stadium.

"He's a horrible gym fighter," you are warned before he climbs through the ropes at his training camp in suburban San Rafael. After it's over, you are advised to pay no attention to what you saw.

Jack Solomons, the British promoter, shrugs off Cockell's workouts.

"In London, I can't even get the boxing writers to bother to look at him in training," he said. "They say he never shows them anything. He just practices his moves but never executes them."

The challenger's manager, John Simpson, hastens to explain that Don dislikes public workouts, feels its "a bit rotten" to show up his sparring partners.

American observers who never have seen Cockell fight must draw their conclusions from what they see. To put it mildly, there has been no rush to climb on the invader's band wagon.

Obviously ill at ease in a head guard, Cockell has a disturbing habit of walking in with his head in the air. Harry Matthews found out what happened when he made the same mistake against Marciano.

Cockell holds his left hand low, inviting the right hand bombs that the heavyweight champion throws. He shows little ability at fighting on the inside and tying up his man. A left jab is Don's best weapon and he has a tendency to counterpunch to the body after he has drawn a lead.

On the credit side, Cockell appears to be a strong young fellow with quick arms and fair speed for a man of his roly poly build. The strength of his chin must remain a doubtful factor until Rocky tees off on it.

If Cockell's jab can cut Marcano's nose or open a gash around one of his eyes in an early round he might turn out to be the man England has been waiting for since the days of Bob Fitzsimmons. But that's a big "if."

Rocky hits too hard and Cockell is too easy to hit. It should be all over inside of seven rounds.

White Sox Rally In 9th, Defeat Orioles 6-2

BALTIMORE (AP)—Chicago exploded for four runs on as many hits in the ninth inning to break a 2-2 deadlock and whip the Baltimore Orioles, 6-2 Thursday night, before 14,014 fans in the opener of a three-game series.

The White Sox blew the game wide open in the final stanza on singles by Chico Carrasquel, Aaron Dorish—who came on the mound for Chicago in the seventh and was the winner—Nellie Fox and a two-run double by Jim Rivera who had singled to drive in a run in the third inning.

Ray Moore, the loser, had walked Sherm Lollar after striking out Ron Jackson to start the winning rally.

Saul Rogovin started on the mound for Baltimore but was lifted in the sixth after giving up six hits, striking out four and working up a 3-2 count on Jackson.

Art Schallock came on to face Jackson, walked him on the first pitch was lifted for Moore after Lollar was put in to bat for Clint Courtney. Lollar popped up.

Jack Harshman, Chicago's starter, limited the Birds to just five hits before he was lifted after giving Moore a single to start the seventh. Reliefer Dorish struck out Billy Cox and forced Hoot Evers to ground out after Gil Coan, batting for Bob Kennedy, sacrificed Moore to second.

Rain Halts Phils-Redlegs In 4th Inning

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rain tonight washed out a 2-1 lead the tough luck Philadelphia Phils held over the Cincinnati Redlegs in the fourth inning. The last place Philadelphians have dropped their last 11 games.

Granny Hamner's homer, with Del Ennis aboard, gave the Phils the edge in the fourth.

The Reds tallied in the second on a walk and a pair of singles. A third single filled the bases with no outs. But the Reds were halted by righthander Murry Dickson.

No-Hit Hurler Came Close To Being Yanked In 9th

CHICAGO (AP)—Sam Jones nearly was yanked right out of his no-hitter after walking the bases full in the ninth inning Thursday, but lucky for him Chicago Cubs Manager Stan Hick didn't tell him so.

"One more walk and he was out—no-hitter or no no-hitter," said grinning Hack in the jubilant Cub dressing room. "But I didn't tell Sam that."

Jones said he honestly didn't know he had pitched a no-hitter until his teammates swarmed on him in post game congratulations.

Catcher Clyde McCullough, grizzled veteran of more than 1,000 major league games, was as happy over catching his first no-hitter as Jones was in pitching his.

"His curve at the end of the game was superb," said McCullough, who specialized in catching the erratic Jones. "In fact, it was the greatest I've ever caught.

"What did I tell him when he walked the bases loaded in the ninth? I just said 'Get that ball over, that's all' and he did, striking out those last three guys."

Jones said he felt he had the Pirates eating out of his hand most of the way, but that he knew against Frank Thomas in the dramatic ninth "I couldn't fast-ball him with the bases loaded.

"I kept coming in with the curve and I'm glad I did."

The 29-year-old Jones came to the Cubs, along with outfielder Gale Wade, in the trade that sent outfielder Ralph Kiner to the Indians last winter. Both Jones and Wade were with Indianapolis last season.

Regarded a top-notch major league prospect for several years, Jones attributed erratic pitching to bursitis in his throwing arm.

Jones is married and has two sons. He resides in Monongah, W. Va.

We've had several inquiries concerning the Jacksonville baseball entry in the Illinois River Valley loop. Since we know very little about the subject we are unable to answer the questions. However, we do know there are several good young ball players interested in playing baseball this summer and are anxious to find out how they can get on the team. If this club is going under the name of "Jacksonville" it probably plans to hold tryouts some time in the near future.

—o—

But if this team is made up of players performing for an organization that's a different story. However there's still quite a few good ball players here in town for the summer who are interested in playing ball. Such names as Scott, Winstead, Sellars, Hazelrigg Barnes, Lewis, another Scott, Phalen, Farmer and Kraushaar should be showing up in somebody's box score. This right here is the nucleus of a pretty fair country ball club. All they need is a sponsor or sponsors.

The local track situation perks up a bit this weekend with the two prep squads going to Macomb for the District and the Illinois College cindermen holding their first home track meet since the spring of 1949. Coaches Phil Clary and Jim Spink take their hopefuls to the Western city and hope at least a couple of them advance to the State which will be held at Memorial Stadium, Champaign May 20 and 21. We've already heard one coach say he hopes a certain performer of his comes through because he (the coach) would certainly like to see the State.

The IC meet set for 1:30 p. m. on the JHS athletic field Saturday afternoon will be the first college meet in our town for six years. The Blueboys under the direction of Al Rosenberger play host to Quincy and Blackburn colleges in the Triangular affair. A fourth team Rose Poly, withdrew this week.

We saw our first big league ball game of the season Wednesday night when we witnessed the Cardinals' 6-5 win over Philadelphia. We'll say one thing, Alex Grammas looked like he was worth the 100 grand Busch paid for him. The "Golden Greek" made as fine a play as we've seen in a long time when he raced behind third baseman Boyer, scooped up Ennis' grounder and fired to the plate in time for a forceout. The Phils had the sacks loaded at the time and the score was tied 3-3. Even though the Phils scored two runs a moment later and took a 5-3 lead in this 8th inning, the play Grammas made was a key play and thrilled all 5000 of us.

—o—

This play was the second great play we saw Wednesday—the other one taking place in the IC-Greenville contest. IC third baseman Bill Ingle took pitcher Gene Farmer off the hook in the third inning when he made a diving stop of a hot smash to his left and got up in time to dash to third and get a forceout. Some play.

3 Tie For Lead In White Sulphur Springs Open

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Three of golf's pro youngsters, Mike Souchak, Dow Finsterwald and Peter Thomson, each knocked six strokes off par 70 Thursday to get a first-round jump on the field of 48 in the White Sulphur Springs Open.

The under-30-year-old trio took a one-stroke lead over two of the game's oldest active players, 44-year-old Johnny Revolta and 48-year-old Henry Picard. Revolta won the PGA in 1935 and Picard was the winner in 1939 when the 25-year-old Finsterwald and Thomson weren't old enough to swing a golf club. Souchak is 28.

Two of the game's aging but still bestknown pros, 43-year-old Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, were in a bunch of nine tied at 69 for sixth place.

The field scrambling for $10,000 in prizes during the 72 holes spread over four days were in a par-breaking mood generally as 27 of the 47 beat the standard mark of 70 for the Old White Course.

Al's Radio of Peoria is defending champion. State Farm Mutual of Bloomington, as national regional champion, will advance directly to the west central regional at Aurora.

Rookie Righthander Whiffs Side In 9th After Walking Three

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Sam (Toothpick) Jones, towering Chicago Cub righthander, hurled a dramatic no-hitter against the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday 4-0, striking out the entire Pirate side in the ninth inning after walking the bases full.

Jones faced 31 batters, walking 7, as he fashioned the first National League no-hitter in Chicago in 38 years. He struck out six.

In pitching the season's first no-hitter, Jones also became the first Negro to hurl one in the majors.

Standing before television cameras immediately after the game, Jones said:

"I was just out there throwing fast balls and curves. Clyde (McCullough, catcher) deserves all the credit. He knows all the batters and kept telling me how to pitch to them. I just threw what he told me."

McCullough, a masterful handler of pitchers, who returned to the Cubs after a stint with the Pirates two years ago, said:

"No, I can't take the credit. Sam was just superb out there on the mound. And I don't think that he is wild, although Sam himself thinks he is. It certainly was a great thrill for both of us."

The fast-balling Negro, former Cleveland chattel, really gave the skimpy crowd of 2,918 a thrill when—after walking the first three Pirates in the ninth—he struck out Dick Groat on three pitches, fanned Roberto Clemente on a 0-2 and whiffed dangerous Frank Thomas on a called third strike with a 1-2 count.

Jones, 29, 6-feet-4, 200-pounder, had left only one Pirate stranded before his sensational ninth-inning finish. That occurred in the third inning when Toby Atwell walked.

Chaces appeared slim that Jones would get away scoreless when he seemed to lose his control completely in the ninth, walking Ed Freese, pinch hitter Perston Ward and Tom Saffell.

Manager Stan Hack and the entire Cub infield clustered worriedly about Jones after the bases were loaded.

But big Sam who munches toothpicks while he pitches, began pouring in strikes when Groat stepped up. He never let up after that in pitching the first no-hitter of the major league season.

Not since the famous double no-hitter between Fred Toney of Cincinnati and Jim Vaughn of the Cubs May 2, 1917, had a National League no-hitter been pitched in Chicago.

That game, played at Weeghman Field, the Cubs' former playing site, went 10 innings with the Reds winning 1-0 on two hits in the 10th.

Jones threw 136 pitches, but his wildness was offset by some brilliant Cub plays, including two twin killings.

In the Cub dressing room, Jones said "I didn't know it was a no-hitter until the game was over." The rangy native of Monongah, W. Va., said that his curve ball at the end of the game started to "come around."

After Jones had walked the first three in the ninth, he was unaware that he would be taken out had he walked another man.

Manager Stan Hack said "certainly, I would have yanked him had he walked one more man."

It was the season's fourth triumph against three defeats for Jones, who last season won 15 and lost 8 for Indianapolis in the American Assn., and was second high in the league in strikeouts with 178.

Jones never had pitched a professional no-hitter, but had three no-hitters in one year with a Rochester, Minn., semi-pro team in 1949.

Jones said he chewed only one toothpick Thursday and it was a tiny splinter at the end of the game.

The unnoticed loser was Pittsburgh starter Nelson King, who left for a pinch hitter in the second, trailing 2-0. The Cubs raked 15 hits off King and reliefer Vern Law, who yielded a homer to rookie Ted Tappe in the seventh.

The Pirates hit five balls to the outfield, including two fine catches by centerfielder Eddie Miksis deep in the well.

Groat nearly had a hit in the seventh on a smash that Jones deflected to Gene Baker at second. Baker came in fast to make the throw to third.

Lee Wallard To Try Again

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Lee Wallard, forced out of racing by a flaming track mishap four days after he won the 500-mile auto race here in 1951, came back Thursday to try again.

"I talked my wife into it, and I'm ready to go," the fire-scarred driver said on his return to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. He said he will drive on the Memorial Day race this year "only if I get a good car."

Wallard, who is 44, was burned badly on the racetrack at Reading, Pa. To avoid danger to spectators, he drove his flaming car to the pits.

McDermott Tops Score As Nats Jar Tribe 3-0

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mickey McDermott outpitched Herb Score in a brilliant pitching duel Thursday night as the Washington Senators knocked off the league-leading Cleveland Indians 3-0.

McDermott yielded four scattered hits in throwing his first shutout of the hear.

The game marked the end of baseball's longest current playing streak. Eddie Yost, the Washington third baseman, sat it out as the result of an attack of tonsillitis. He had appeared in 838 consecutive games over a six-year period.

McDermott struck out nine and only once was he in serious trouble when he filled the bases with three walks in the fourth inning.

But he pitched himself out of the jam by striking out Dave Pope and Larry Doby and getting Hank Foiles in a fly ball.

All three of the men who scored for Washington reached base on walks, two by Score, who lost his second against three victories, and one by reliefer Art Houtteman.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market went through a spell of weakness Thursday, but a buying rally cut losses and held the decline to moderate proportions.

It was the second day of severe losses for the market, and it was the second time that buying managed to reduce the worst of the fall.

Most major divisions were under fire with declines that went to around $4 at the worst. At the close, losses amounted to $1 to $3. There were gains that ran to around $3, but they were infrequent.

Under pressure were the steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, oils and railroads. A better showing was radio-televisions, chemicals, airlines, motion pictures and building materials. No division, however, was very robust.

The stock market has been declining for more than two weeks from its record high peak, and many brokers regard the situation as a consolidation move.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 90 cents at $161.80. It was off $1.20 Wednesday.

Both the industrial and railroad components of the average lost $1.10 while utilities were off 30 cents.

Volume expanded on the fall and came to 2,830,000 shares. That compares with 2,120,000 shares traded Wednesday.

The American Stock Exchange was lower on volume of 780,000 shares as compared with 680,000 shares traded Wednesday.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Most choice 190 to 230-pound butchers were up 25 cents, selling mainly from $17.25 to $18.00. One deck hit $18.50, the first time that price has been reached since April 11. This was only 10 cents under the high for the year.

Butchers scaling 230 to 270 brought $16.50 to $17.25. Sows sold from $12.00 to $15.25.

Lower grade steers and heifers weakened but good and choice kinds sold steady to 25 cents higher. Prime cattle were absent. Top on steers was $25.00. Most good and choice steers and yearlings sold for $19.00 to $23.50. Good to high choice heifers and mixed yearlings brought $19.00 to $23.00.

A few early sales of cows were as much as 25 cents higher but the market finished only steady to 50 cents down. Utility and commercial sold for $11.00 to $14.25. Vealers were weak to $2.00 down at $21.00 to $26.00 for good and choice. Receipts totaled 2,500.

Lambs and sheep held steady. Good and choice shorn lambs with No. 1 and No. 2 pelts sold at $17.00 to $18.50. Receipts totaled 1,500.

WHEAT ENDS WITH SUBSTANTIAL GAINS

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP)—A brisk short covering movement in May wheat, which eventually spread to deferred months, left the bread grain with fairly substantial advances on the Board of Trade Thursday.

Wheat was alone in showing any real strength, although most rye and oats contracts ended slightly higher. But corn, soybeans and lard had a weak tone throughout the session.

Wheat closed 1¾-2⅝ higher, corn ¼-⅞ lower, oats unchanged to ¼ higher, rye ¼ lower to ½ higher, soybeans 1¾ lower to ¼ higher and lard 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower.

At the outset wheat headed downward, only May resisting the selling. May wheat never got under Wednesday's close. Early selling in the new crop months followed receipt of more rain in parts of the winter wheat belt overnight.

May wheat quickly headed upward. For a long time it was alone on the plus side, but later the new crop months came ahead. It was felt some of the buying in new crop months came from traders who were short in May and bought other contracts for protection.

Grainmen said processors appeared to be getting sufficient cash soybeans in the country for their daily operations. In the cash market bean meal sank to another new low for the year at $54.00.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The corporate bond market was generally lower Thursday. U. S. government liens remained steady.

"Big Board" volume dipped to $3,370,000 par value from $3,810,000 Wednesday as all sections of the corporate list extended Wednesday's losses. Some obligations convertible into common stock were especially hard hit. High-grade issues backed away gently.

All sections of the corporate list—railroads, industrials and utilities—worked lower. But, except for convertibles, most changes were under $1.

GREATER DEMAND FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES: MITCH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell said Thursday that this year's college graduates are in a unique position because there are fewer of them and the demand for their services is greater.

Mitchell reported this year's class totals 264,000, compared with 434,000 five years ago and an estimated 325,000 five years hence.

In an open letter to the class, Mitchell said:

"The fact is: There are fewer of you this June than in any recent past summer and the demand for your talents is greater than it has recently been.

"You are in demand because job opportunities are high and graduates to fill them are low."

SEEK 3-LEGGED CAT

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — City health officials are looking for a three-legged cat. They've been authorized to shoot it but they'd rather take it alive.

H. C. Roberts, city sanitarian, said a woman stricken with diphtheria told him she had fed and petted the cat. Roberts explained if the cat is a diphtheria carrier it would be the first time to his knowledge a cat had been discovered carrying a disease peculiar to humans.

State Legislature

Civil Service Overhaul

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Legislation overhauling state personnel practices through a new department to supervise employes won unanimous approval Thursday in the Illinois House.

The series of 33 bills, drafted by a special legislative commission after an 18-month study, moved to the Senate for final action.

House Speaker Warren Wood, who headed the commission, told the House that "fifty years of patchwork have confused and complicated" existing civil service laws and that the bills would mean "more happy, satisfied and effective state service."

The legislation calls for creation of a state department headed by a $25,000 a year director appointed by the governor.

The present State Civil Service Commission would be reduced to a policy making and advisory agency. The new department would have responsibility for hiring and placement of employes in state jobs.

Its duties also would involve classification and pay of positions, working conditions, and selection and retention of persons in state service on merit and fitness grounds.

These other developments occurred before the Assembly adjourned until next Tuesday:

Endorse Road Plan

A resolution endorsing President Eisenhower's proposed 100 billion dollar bond issue road program was adopted by the Senate. The resolution said Illinois would have to provide only 29 million in matching funds to receive 125 million a year in federal road money.

Liabilities

A bill by Sen. Clyde Trager (R—Peoria) making cities liable for damages caused by firemen and policemen in their duties won approval over protests it would add a burden to financially pressed cities. A vote of 27 to 8 moved the bill to the House. At present, firemen and policemen are liable for damages.

Circuit Judges

The Senate also passed and referred to the House a measure by Sen. George Drach (R-Springfield) providing for election of four instead of three circuit judges in circuits with a city of 50,000 or more.

Youth Commission

Sen. Lottie Holman O'Neill (R-Downers Grove) introduced a resolution requesting an investigation of the Illinois Youth Commission, which has supervision of juvenile offenders.

The resolution, sent to the Executive Committee, asked that five senators be named to investigate the responsibilities, activities and accomplishments of the commission.

Pensioners' Earnings

The Illinois Senate Thursday passed and sent to Gov. Stratton a bill allowing old age pensioners to earn up to $50 a month without reducing their grant, providing the federal law is changed to permit it.

The Senate passed the bill after concurring in a House amendment.

Garrett Keaster, executive secretary of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, said the commission now takes into consideration all the income and resources of a pensioner in determining grants.

Confer on Remap

Gov. Stratton conferred Thursday with Republican and Democratic Senate leaders on the still unsolved problem of legislative reapportionment.

Sen. William Lynch of Chicago, Democratic minority leader, told newsmen after his session with the governor that a Senate remapping bill should be ready for introduction by Wednesday.

Senate leaders on at least two previous occasions have set and failed to meet deadlines for introducing a bill.

Progress on Senate remapping, wherein area is the primary consideration, has been stalled by failure to agree on the 18 districts allowed in Chicago. Agreement has been reached on the six districts for rural Cook County and the 34 downstate districts.

House leaders are set on the map for that branch.

U. OF I. CHEMIST WINS AWARD

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Carl S. Marvel of the University of Illinois Thursday night was awarded the 1955 Gold Medal of the American Institute of Chemists.

The medal, awarded annually "for noteworthy and outstanding service" to chemistry, was given to Dr. Marvel at the group's annual banquet.

Dr. Marvel, research professor of organic chemistry at the university, is credited with leading research during World War II which materially aided in the production of synthetic rubber.

Dr. Roger Adams, another chemical research professor at the U of I, was awarded one of 61 honorary memberships in the institute.

MIGS WAG GREETING

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—A U. S. Air Force T33 jet trainer had a friendly encounter with three MIGs over the Baltic Thursday, Danish air force headquarters announced.

The American plane was en route from Hamburg to Denmark when the MIGs swooped down and circled, the air force report said. The American plane was at 9,000 feet, approaching the Danish West coast near Roedbyhavn on the Island of Lolland.

The report said the American pilot on arrival at a Danish base related the MIGs, presumably Russian, moved their wing tips up and down in a greeting gesture.

The American made a steep dive and the MIGs disappeared.

SEEK CULTURAL RELATIONS

LONDON (AP)—Britain set up a committee today to promote closer cultural relations between Britain and Russia. The Foreign Office said Prime Minister Eden's Conservative government had organized the committee "in pursuance of the policy of promoting good relations."

Chicago Retailers Oppose Proposed Sales Tax Hike

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago retailers voiced strong opposition Thursday to the proposed hike in sales taxes. They said it might tend to cut down sales and drive business out of Illinois.

A plan evolved Wednesday by Gov. Stratton and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley would permit the sales tax to be increased one cent to a total of three on the dollar.

Under the plan, cities would be permitted to levy a half-cent city sales tax without recourse to voter referendum. The other half-cent would be levied by the state for a two-year period. The proposal is to be submitted to the Legislature.

Fred Goerlitz, managing director of the Chicago Retail Merchants Assn., said the proposal "completely ignores the irreparable harm which will be done to Chicago by driving more of its people and more of its business out of Chicago."

New York's Last El Is Late For Date With Destiny

NEW YORK (AP)—The old Third Avenue Elevated, last in Manhattan, rattled off into oblivion Thursday night—four minutes late for its date with destiny.

"Not so good," admitted dispatcher Al Bachman as he sent a final six-car train on its way north from Chatham Square at 6:04 p. m.

The 77-yer-old East Side El line is to be torn down. It is the last to go. The 2nd, 6th, and 9th Ave. E's preceded it.

The getaway of the last train on the Third Ave. El was noted by hundreds of spectators who cheered and tossed paper streamers as it trundled off.

Aboard the last train were 800 passengers on a final ride of intimate, window-peeping informality that for so long characterized El travel in New York.

A few cops were aboard the train to hold down the revelry. But they were powerless to cope with souvenier hungry passengers who ripped down hand straps, destination signs and advertising cards.

The Third Ave. El was taking in only 70,000 fares a day compared to 275,000 a few years ago. It was losing money at the rate of $50,000 a week.

CRYIN' RAY CALMS GIRL FANS WITH SONG

LONDON (AP)—The American sob-singer, Johnny Ray, had to climb up on the roof of the Palladium Theater to soothe screaming teenage girls before he could get in the stage door for his final performance here last Saturday night.

Ray's taxi was stopped and almost overturned by girl fans massed solidly around the stage entrance.

The police inspector in charge of crowd control suggested that Ray try tuneful persuasion to disperse the kids.

So the singer climbed up the fire escape and gave forth with 10 minutes of free melody.

He climbed down amid a shower of boxed chocolates and flowers from his admirers.

AUCTION EQUIPMENT OF BROOKLYN EAGLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Most of the office equipment at the Brooklyn Eagle was auctioned off Thursday for $7,500.

Thursday's receipts increased to $115,000 the total taken in since the sale started Wednesday. The sale will continue Friday.

A strike by the CIO American Newspaper Guild closed the Eagle last Jan. 29.

Later, the owners of the Eagle said they had decided to quit publication and sell the paper because they said they could not meet the demands of the union.

FOR SALE — ATOMIC HEAT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some "atomic heat" is for sale in Southern California.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced Thursday it is inviting proposals to buy the heat produced in experimental operation of a reactor now being built 30 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles.

The new reactor, being built by North American Aviation under contract with AEC, is intended chiefly for research. The heat is a byproduct and won't be in constant supply.

AEC said, however, there will be enough to generate some 7,500 kilowatts of electricity.

House Upholds Plan To Cut Armed Forces

The amendments offered by Flood and Andrews would have kept the Army at its projected June 30, 1955, level of 1,114,000, the Navy at 672,000 and the Marines at 215,000.

The President's plan calls for an Army of 1,027,000, a Navy of 664,000 and a Marine Corps of 193,000 at the end of the new fiscal year. The Air Force would be increased during the year from 970,000 to 975,000.

Flood also lost his fight to maintain an active fleet of 1,066 ships instead of the 1,001 programmed by the President.

In all, the defeated amendments would have added $413,793,500 to the bill.

The measure makes these allotments:

Army: $7,329,818,000, about $290,000,000 less than was provided this year.

Navy: $9,071,834,000, about $640,000,000 less than this year.

Air Force: $14,401,904,000, an increase of $3,473,000,000 over this year.

The Navy program provides for 34 new ships, including a fifth carrier of the Forrestal class and 8 submarines, 3 of them nuclear-powered.

The Air Force budget provides for an active aircraft fleet of 20,692 during 1956, compared with 19,872 this year, and for procurement of 2,333 craft next year.

Walgreen, Burns In Poor Condition After Car Accident

TOLEDO (AP) — Charles R. Walgreen III, 19, of the national drug store chain family from Winnetka, Ill., and Robert H. Burns, 20, of Dearborn, Mich., were in poor condition Thursday night, aides in Mercy Hospital reported.

Both are students at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and were injured early Thursday when their auto, driven by young Walgreen, skidded and struck a utility pole in downtown Toledo.

Police said Walgreen told them he and Burns came here for a date with two Toledo girls and were returning to Ann Arbor when the accident happened.

Walgreen, cited by police on charges of driving without due regard for safety and without an operator's license, suffered a leg fracture and head, ankle and arm injuries. Burns received internal injuries, leg and hip fractures and severe face cuts.

THREE CIVILIANS KILLED AT CANADIAN ARMY CAMP

VALCARTIER, Que. (AP) — A 16-year-old girl and two men, all civilians, were killed Wednesday night at the Valcartier army camp when a rocket they apparently were collecting for scrap metal exploded.

Killed were Paul Odilon Daigle, 25; Marie Claire Daigle, 16; and Adrien LaBranche, 21, all of nearby St. Gerad-Magella.

Mrs. Paul Daigle was seriously injured in the blast, which occurred on the rocket range in a prohibited zone.

A Canadian army spokesman said the group apparently slipped past camp guards.

Valcartier is 15 miles northwest of Quebec City.

TROY, Ill. (AP) — A woman was killed and her husband seriously injured Wednesday night when their pick up truck collided with a car on U. S. Highway 40 about one mile east of here.

State police identified the victim as Mrs. Julia Schmerbauch, 59, of Troy. Her husband, Charles Schmerbauch, 75, is in serious condition at nearby Highland, Ill., hospital.

The driver of the car, Jack Baldwin, 25, Greenville, Ill., escaped injury. State police said the truck was making a left turn when it collided with the car, approaching from the opposite direction.

"DAVY CROCKETT" IN COURT

NEW YORK (AP)—Felony Court attendant Jerry Lupi was calling names of defendents Thursday when he paused and did a double take.

"Davy Crockett," he sang out.

Magistrate Joseph A. Martinis looked up, startled. Davy Crockett, 32, a cook, strode to the bar of justice.

A detective said he was wanted in Toledo, Ohio, on a charge of neglecting an illegitimate child.

Said Martinis:

"Well, Davy Crockett or no, if the Ohio authorities come with a warrant, he'll go back."

But because he bore such a respected name, Martinis released him in his own recognizance until the case comes up again next month.

825 Cars Tested At "Lane" Despite Rains

Although frequent showers have interrupted the schedule of Safety Lane on West Morgan street, 825 passenger cars had passed through the testing devices Thursday morning. Activities at the "Lane" were expected to begin full force later in the day if weather conditions improved.

"Seventy-nine of the cars that failed to pass the tests Wednesday came back again after the defects had been corrected," Chief Ike Flynn reported. "That shows fine spirit on the part of drivers—they want to find out if their cars are not in good shape, and have the proper adjustments made."

Wet weather has butted into the testing schedule several times since Monday morning, but when showers let up the testing crew reassembles and the cars start through again. Safety Lane is located on West Morgan street adjacent to the high school gymnasium.

The free testing service is sponsored by the Jacksonville police department in cooperation with the National Safety Council, Look Magazine, and the Inter-City Highway Safety Committee.

Safety stickers are awarded after passenger cars pass the tests involving wheel alignment, brakes, headlights, horn, and other safety facilities.

State Police Chief Phil Brown has assigned State Patrolman Clyde Vasconcellos, Jr., of this city to assist with the Lane in checking cars. State Patrolman Charles Batley of Bluffs was assigned to the Lane on Wednesday, which was Vasconcellos' day off.

Nineteen Jacksonville residents have been awarded passes to the Illinois Theater after going through Safety Lane. All drivers whose cars traverse Safety Lane are eligible for other awards, to be made at 9 p.m. Saturday at the Illinois theater.

To receive awards it is not necessary to be at the theater, Co-Chairmen Charles Runkel and Wilbur Stafford, explained.

Hours of Safety Lane are 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., ending Saturday evening, May 14.

Police officers expect Friday and Saturday to be the biggest days of the week, weather permitting.

Because of this it is most important that all members have their yearly dues paid on or before May 31.

With the foremost reputation the club holds it is most fitting for all members to see that their dues are paid by the deadline date to the treasurer, Mrs. L. L. Edlen. Any member wishing to resign is requested to submit her resignation in written form to the new president, Mrs. J. Allen Biggs or another club officer before May 31. This courtesy will enable the membership list to be printed correctly in the new year books which will be issued by the club for the October meeting which opens the fall season. Members having changes of address are requested to notify Mrs. Earl Davis before May 31 so that these too may be printed correctly in the new year book.

Arcadia Woman's Club Has Annual Luncheon May 3

The annual May luncheon of the Arcadia Woman's Club was held at the Arcadia hall on Tuesday, May 3, in buffet style. The tables were prettily decorated with purple and white flowers and paper streamers, which were the club colors. Twenty-six members attending and Mrs. A. E. Obermeyer, a charter member as a guest, enjoyed the entire meeting. The lunchon and program displayed much planning and work by the committee in charge, which included Mrs. Oren Mallicoat, Mrs. Byron McGinnis, Mrs. Roscoe Goodpasture and Mrs. William Jones.

After the generous dinner the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Loren Burrus. "Silver Threads Among the Gold" was sung by the group. Mrs. Harold McGinnis led the pledge and the devotional period. The hymn, "Love Lifted Me," was led by Mrs. Fred Standley. The usual business was transacted and the club collect was read in unison. Roll Call was answered with "What I Think of the Luncheon."

Delegates that had attended the District meeting in Virginia, gave a report to the club. The treasurer was requested to purchase a frame for the "100% Club Certificate" so it can be hung in the Arcadia hall. A lively discussion about the problem at the "Marquette Boys Home" led to further information being presented. From this information it was decided to drop any action unless future developments warrant that some action be reconsidered. Mrs. Loren Burrus and Mrs. Robert Daniels were named to attend the State Convention in Chicago.

The Memorial Day Services chairman, Mrs. Clarence Thompson, announced that the services will be held on Sunday, May 29, at 2:30 p.m. C.S.T., at the Arcadia Cemetery church.

Mrs. Cora Hamm was accepted as a new member of the club.

The program which followed was fun for all. Mrs. Thomas Parlier won the prize for having cut the nicest wearable garment from a newspaper. Name the Cake contest was won by Mrs. Cora Hamm and Mrs. A. E. Obermeyer. Using crayola to color a picture was won by Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie. Choosing up sides for a Macaroni Relay won for Mrs. Robert Daniels team, the large bag of candy.

"The Lunatic Gift Exchange" concluded the program. It was truly amusing, especially the big box, which when opened by its receiver, proved to contain one potato.

All members should be present at the June meeting to greet the new officers as they start their duties for the coming year. Mrs. Harold Rolf, new president, will name the committees for the coming year. Mrs. Andrew Wheeler will be the hostess for the June 8 meeting at the Arcadia hall.

Former German War Leaders Agree 'Unconditional Surrender' Delayed Peace

Editor's Note—Through history generals have refought wars—and the men who lead Hitler's Wehrmacht are no exception. Here's what some of them, now prominent civilians in the Bonn Republic, think the Allies might have done to make VE Day a reality long before the Nazi surrender 10 years ago, plus a first-hand report on West Germany's road back to recovery by an AP correspondent in Germany since the war's end.

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BONN, Germany (AP)—Ten years ago the shooting stopped in Germany. Cities were in ruins. Seven million soldiers squatted in barbed wire prison cages.

The war was over, but arguments would go on for years about how it was fought. From the perspective of a single decade, how does it look today? Did the Allies make grave mistakes? Could the war have been ended sooner?

Some of the top leaders of Hitler's Wehrmacht say yes. And they single out one thing which, they victory in Europe.

It was the historic pronouncement issued at the Casablanca conference in 1943 — two fateful words regarded by former German commanders as the biggest U.S.-British blunder of World War II—"unconditional surrender."

The demand was made in remarks to the press by President Franklin D. Roosevelt on Jan. 24, 1943.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill did not dissent. He sat beside his powerful American ally while the policy was made known to the world.

Afterwards, the Nazi Reich fought on for two years, three months and 13 days. It surrendered only when Adolf Hitler was presumed a suicide and nearly all Germany had been seized.

At the suggestion of James B. Stevenson, general manager of the Titusville, (Pa.,) Herald, five former high German officers, now prominent in civilian life in the Bonn Republic, were asked by The Associated Press, for the 10th anniversary of VE Day, to reply to this question:

"In your opinion, did the Allies make blunders which prolonged World War II, and if they had followed some different course of action, could they have brought about the earlier surrender of the Reich?"

Replies came from:

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, president of the Stahlhelm, a veterans organization, and last commander in chief in the West.

General of Infantry Guenther Blumentritt, now a military historian, who was chief of staff in the West in 1944.

General of Armor Hasso von Manteuffel, now a Free Democrat deputy in Parliament, who commanded the 5th Panzer Army in the Battle of the Bulge.

Vice Adm. Helmuth Heye, now a Christian Democrat deputy in Parliament, who commanded one-man torpedoes, frogmen and all small combat units in the navy.

Col. Gen. Hans-Juergen von Arnim, commander of German forces in Tunisia in 1943.

These ex-commanders have voluntarily cooperated closely since the war with American and British military experts and made their replies to The Associated Press dependent on the clear recognition that they harbored no animosity toward the United States and Britain, criticized no wartime Allied personality, and vigorously supported Germany's postwar integration with the West.

Next to "unconditional surrender," the Germans listed the Allied decision to invade southern France instead of the Balkans as a factor lengthening the war. An equal effort in the Balkans would have seriously weakened Germany and secured most of the Balkans for western influence instead of Russian after the war.

All the ex-commanders regard the Normandy landings in retrospect as a military masterpiece without a major flaw.

Their replies included:

Field Marshal Kesselring—"If I had not examined, in a small book now being printed, the blunders and shortcomings of the German command, I would hardly feel right to talk about mistakes made by the Allies. However, if we wish to learn something for the future, we must have the courage to examine the past objectively.

"The Casablanca statement on unconditional surrender undermined German desire for peace, and prevented the Allies from ending the war at a time when Russian influence could still have been held back.

"After Stalingrad, or at latest after the fall of Tunis (May 1943), it was apparent that German victory could not be counted on. Wise, far-sighted Western policy—if Casablanca had not stood in the way—could have worked for a peace settlement that would not cripple future progress, and perhaps could have shortened the war one to two years.

"In no case should the southern French landings have been carried out after the Normandy invasion had gained such extensive ground. An attack through the Balkans, or from northern Italy, into the area east of Vienna would have stopped the Russian advance outside of Occidental terrain. With this and a speedup of the Allied advance in the West, the war definitely could have been ended in 1944."

Gen. Blumentritt — "Answering your question is not easy for the German side, because in the long run, the Allies won the victory. Success is decisive! It would be tactless to judge certain Allied errors. Therefore, I shall restrict myself to views which we expressed among ourselves as soldiers at headquarters, without knowing the reasons behind the action of our opponents.

"First of all, it was not practical politics for the Allies to demand unconditional surrender. Psychologically, it had the result of forcing not only the Wehrmacht but the people to extreme resistance. Using this hard demand, the Third Reich's propaganda told the people that they had to fight to the last. No doubt this prolonged the war."

If the Anglo-American armies had been able to mount a new combined offensive at the beginning of September 1944, "German defense west of the Rhine would have been broken down completely," Gen. Blumentritt continued.

"At the time, the West Wall was practically dismantled and unmanned."

"Because of the operational pause, which the Western Powers observed at the German frontier, a new line was established.

"Naturally, reasons must have been many for delaying the general attack we had feared—political intentions to advance through southern Germany to reach Austria and Czechoslovakia as soon as possible, military supply line difficulties regarding gasoline, and so forth. There may also have been internal differences of opinion in the Western joint command on the best manner of continuing operations. Such differences of opinion among allies can hardly be helped."

Gen. Manteuffel—"The biggest psychological error was the demand for unconditional surrender. The fighting will of the German soldier was thereby strengthened to such a degree that even in the almost hopeless situation of December 1944, a big German offensive—the Ardennes—was still possible. After the unconditional surrender demand and then the Morgenthau Plan, the soldier could not look forward to a decent postwar life. Thus he fought to the last, even in circumstances devoid of all hope.

"The big strategic mistake, in my opinion, was that the Allies did not land in the Balkans. They would have encountered less resistance than even in southern France. The German Eastern Front would have been 'taken off the hinges.' Besides causing a German breakdown already in 1944, such a landing would have had the political advantage of keeping the Soviets out of central Europe.

"The halt of the Western armies at the Elbe in 1945 was a politico-military mistake, which left Berlin, the capital, to be captured by the Russians, and did not take advantage of the opportunity to run over weak forces on the Elbe and further shorten the war."

Vice adm. Heye—"My personal conviction is that the Allies, by issuing their unconditional surrender demand, forced practically the whole German people into one front and thus all resistance movements became illusory.

"I regard the Allied invasion of southern France as a decision of extraordinary importance, which in its consequences can certainly be regarded as a missed opportunity.

"Just as Churchill proposed in the first World War to break the ring of Central Powers at one of their weakest links, namely the Dardanelles, I believe, in studying the second World War, that Churchill was on the right track, not only politically but also militarily, in proposing the invasion of southeastern Europe (Balkans)."

Col. Gen. Von Arnim—"In my opinion, the Allied demand for unconditional surrender destroyed all uprising against the Hitler system."

Von Arnim, who refused to leave his troops and escape himself by plane when the end came in Tunisia, said the North African campaign might have been shortened by months if the Allies had pursued different strategy:

"After Rommel, contrary to expectations, was not cut off at El Alamein, a push by, say two Allied divisions, from Tebessa directly to the Tunisian coast would have separated the two Axis armies in Africa. Rommel would have run out of supplies in six days and been forced to surrender. With the southern flank open, our army in Tunisia would not have been able to fight on much longer. Thus the attack on Sicily would have been possible a half-year earlier, when Sicily's defense was completely unprepared."

An American prisoner during the last two years of the war, Von Arnim concluded:

"Perhaps there were Allied chances even after Tunisia to shorten the war. However, as I was not able to participate actively, I would not wish to give an opinion."

More Fine-Car Features than any other car priced so low!

FINE-CAR POWER!

Pontiac's husky 200-horsepower Strato-Streak V-8 with four-barrel carburetor, optional at low extra cost, delivers more power than any car within hundreds of dollars of its price. And road records are proving that this power is teamed with the greatest economy in Pontiac history.

FINE-CAR STYLE!

No car at any price is so beautifully distinctive. Pontiac's future-fashioned Twin-Streak styling and Vogue Two-Toning set it apart from all other cars—point the way to tomorrow.

FINE-CAR SIZE!

Pontiac is a big car where it counts—with a long, road-hugging 122" or 124" wheelbase. On any road, at any speed, you enjoy the safe, secure feeling that goes with genuine fine-car size and heft.

FINE-CAR COMFORT!

Pontiac's extra size means big-car comfort—room to stretch out and relax. Wide-stance rear springs and Shock-Proof chassis float you along in luxury style, surrounded by fine-car appointments.

IF you were to guess Pontiac's price on the basis of its style, performance and size, you'd surely guess hundreds of dollars higher than its actual cost. Pontiac measures up with the finest on any point of comparison—except price.

It's a simple matter of fact that you can buy a big, powerful Pontiac for less than many models of the lowest-priced cars and much less than stripped economy models of higher-priced makes!

After a close inspection of Pontiac's luxury and quality and a few miles commanding its mighty 200-horsepower Strato-Streak V-8, buyers from both ends of the price scale are switching to Pontiac in record-breaking numbers. Come in soon for the clinching facts and figures. You'll make the very pleasant discovery that if you can afford any new car, you can afford a Pontiac—and step directly into the fine-car class!

Can you see, steer, stop safely? Check your car—check accidents.

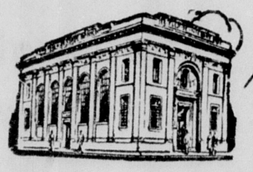
WHICH WOULD

YOU CHOOSE



Who can do the best job for you as Executor of your will?
YOUR WIFE? Hardly. Settling an estate (even a small one) can be a mighty complex job — and must be done at a time when she's least able to cope with extra burdens.

YOUR BROTHER or BEST FRIEND? Again, no. He can ill afford to take the time from his business — and he lacks the specialized experience needed to do the job properly.

ELLIOTT STATE BANK? A happy choice, as hundreds of families will tell you. Its Trust Department is trained to handle the dozens of details in settling an estate, large or small . . . efficiently, promptly, and at surprisingly low cost.

An ELLIOTT STATE TRUST OFFICER will be glad to discuss these advantages at once with you and your lawyer . . . Simply telephone 366 today for an appointment.

BY nightfall of Sept. 7, 200 men were in the field against the gang, with more swarming out by the hour. And the complexion of the pursuers was altering swiftly from the disorganized crowd of embattled townfolk and shotgun-armed farmers which had taken up the chase in the immediate hours of the robbery.

The police chiefs of Minneapolis and St. Paul, accompanied by squads of their cities' detectives, were en route to the scene by train. Every county sheriff in southeastern Minnesota was out, backed by his regular deputies and scores of sworn-in civilians. From St. Paul, Omaha and Chicago the Pinkerton operatives poured in. Robert Pinkerton took personal command, with brother William co-ordinating the campaign from the Chicago headquarters.

The gang had been positively identified within an hour of the robbery, as soon as the telegraph key clicked southward to Mankato. The Mankato sheriff woke up with a belated start, realized what he had slept through, wired the St. Paul police the illuminating details of his dereliction of duty.

With the end of the second day, Sept. 8, there were no less than 500 armed peace officers and enlisted civilians combing the back roads and timbered crosslands for the fleeing bandits. And by the end of that day, pickets were posted at all bridges, back trails and cowpaths in a sprawling semicircle roughly 20 miles south of Northfield, and stretching 50 miles east and west.

Since the last report from outside Millersburg, the gang had vanished without a trace.

Then, suddenly, at noon of the 8th, came a report from a picket post on the Little Cannon River, outside Waterville. Earlier that morning, the bandits had approached the ford. The pickets had fired, the bandits fled back into the woods. Apparently, they were badly frightened. The pickets charged into the timber after them—which was clearly what they had been meant to do. The gang doubled easily back around them and crossed the abandoned ford unmolested.

The Northfield area was cleared out and a new line set up, 50 miles to the south and nearly 100 miles long from point to point.

Late Friday afternoon, the fugitives had invaded a farmhouse north of German Lake, had taken fresh horses at pistol point, pounded on their way. Instantly, a score of posses closed on the area.

* * *

THE outlaw camp was in a tangled, brackish lowland, six miles east of German Lake. It was a far and lonely cry from what his followers had come to expect of Jesse's charmed leadershi

No cheery campfire, here.

The horseblankets hung from the gaunt bushes, leaking more rain than they shed. Beneath them, cold, sick, wet to the shaking bone, crouched the six survivors. Bob was out of his head with the fever and pain of his shattered arm. Cole hunched over him, muttering and growling like the wounded grizzly he was, fighting off the torture of his own wounds as he mothered his raving brother. Beyond them, close enough to touch in the darkness, huddled Frank, Jim and Charlie Pitts. Beneath another bush, 10 feet away, alone and invisible through the sheeting rain, Jesse stared out into the blackness.

Presently, he arose, felt his way, tree trunk by tree trunk, to the tethered horses.

His clasp knife slashed quickly in the gloom, severing the reins of the first mount.

"The crazy idjut's cutting the horses loose."

"Shut your mouth." Jesse's form looked through the downpour, shouldered in under the horseblankets.

"Jess, what you think you're doing?" It was Pitts again, still incredulous.

"I said, shut up. We're getting out of here."

"But the horses!" Now it was Jim Younger, towering over him, eyes blazing.

"Set down," Cole said. "Leave him get on with it." And then, softly: "Dingus always has a plan."

* * *

WHEN he talked at last, it was the old Jesse: quick, fast-worded, absolutely sure of himself and his plan.

"They figure they've got us treed," he began. "That we cain't run no more. Well, they figure right. We cain't run no more. But we can walk!"

He paused, dramatically, then swept on.

"You remember what they used to call 'Old Jack's' boys during the war?" The reference was to Stonewall Jackson and his famed Shenandoah Valley infantry brigade. His listeners understood it, nodded dully.

"Foot cavalry!" rapped Jesse. "He'd take them boys sometimes 30 miles in a night, and they'd go where horse troops couldn't begin to."

"Well, we got bluebellies after us, here. They got nothing but horsemen on their side and they ain't looking for nothing but horsemen on ours. We'll just walk out on them, that's all."

As he had gone along, Cole's gray eyes had narrowed. When he had finished, he had a single question, one he had asked before.

"How about Bob?" he said. "He cain't walk to keep up with the rest of us."

Jesse turned on him, his plan having already foreseen that query. "I left three of the horses tied. I figured you to take Jim and Bob and pull out on me. Help yourselves."

"You figured wrong," said Cole. "We're sticking with you, Ding. You walk, we walk."

Cards Rally In Eighth To Shave Philadelphia 6-5

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Harry Elliott, Stan Musial and Rip Repulski hit eighth-inning doubles Wednesday night that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, who have lost 11 straight games.

The Redbirds rallied against reliefers Ron Mrozinski and Thoronton Kipper just after the Phillies had surged ahead with three runs in their eighth off St. Louis starter Larry Jackson and replacements Bob Tiefenauer and Herb Moford.

St. Louis' winning rally started with a hit batsman, Elliott's pinch double and an infield out good for the first of three runs. Musial then doubled home the tying run and Repulski followed with his double to bring Stan across the plate.

Philadelphia knocked Jackson out of the box in the eighth with the beginning of a three-run rally. Glen Gorbous started it with a pinch single. A walk and Richie Ashburn's double sent him to the showers. Earl Torgeson's two-run bases-loaded single put the Phils into a temporary lead.

The Phils had taken the lead with two runs in the second on a walk, Gran Hamner's triple and Willie Jones' sacrifice fly.

The Cards tied it with two in their second on Bill Sarni's single, an infield hit, a forceout, double steal and Wally Moon's two-run single.

Then Musial belted his sixth homer in the third to put the Cards into a one-run lead which stood up until the Phils' eighth-inning rally.

Jackson, until the rally started, had held the Phils to only three hits.

Herb Moford was the winner in relief.

Hearn Posts Fifth Win As Giants Top Redlegs 6-3

CINCINNATI (AP)—The New York Giants' Jim Hearn posted his fifth triumph of 1955 Wednesday night, a 6-3 job at the expense of the Cincinnati Redlegs. Monte Irvin and Whitey Lockman homered to power the righthander to the victory.

Hearn, charged with one defeat, gave up eight hits, including Wally Post's ninth inning homer.

Both clubs went hitless for the first three frames. But with two out in the fourth, starter-loser Joe Nuxhall walked Irvin. Hank Thompson and Bobby Hofman hit back-to-back singles to score Irvin.

The rightfielder broke a 1-1 deadlock in the sixth with his first homer of the season. Alvin Dark was aboard.

The Giants scored three runs in the eighth on Lockman's fourth homer of the year. Thompson doubled down the right field line with two away and Hofman was walked intentionally before the clout.

The Reds put together two singles and a ground out for a run in the fourth. Gus Bell doubled to open the Red eighth but was out trying to get home on Ray Jablonski's single. However Cincinnati scored later in the frame on an error and Johnny Temple's safety.

ZOO CHOO CHOO

NEW YORK (AP)—Animals including a boa constrictor and an alligator ride the rails to entertain children on the New Haven Railroad's new zoo train special.

The Saturday train brings youngsters to the Bronx Zoo from points as far away as Springfield. Mass.

During the ride, zoo officials go through the cars with an assortment of animals including a hedgehog, screech owl. Descented skunk, opposum, sparrow hawk, and the boa constrictor and alligator.

Only one state, Tennessee, mined more coal in 1954 than in 1953—6,154,000 tons compared to 5,567 tons.

BUILT FOR ONE — Students cheer when they see David Auxier at the University of Kentucky at Lexington, even when he's not riding his unicycle. That's because he's a cheerleader at the school. The unicycle he rides from class to class he made while stationed in Frankfurt, Germany. Student at right seems puzzled by it all.

Meet the successor to the C.O.E.

New L.C.F.
(Low Cab Forward)
Chevrolet Task·Force Trucks

Powered by the most modern V8 in any truck . . .
Chevrolet's new Taskmaster V8 engine!

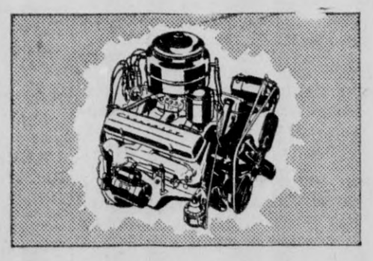
Chevrolet's great new L.C.F. models bring you all the advantages of a C.O.E.–plus a long list of important new advances you won't find anywhere else!

For example, the cab is a full seven inches lower than former C.O.E. models. And it has only two steps instead of the usual three for C.O.E.'s. Just think of the time and effort this will save the driver every time he gets in and out of the cab! Also, the low L.C.F. is handsomer by far than any C.O.E. ever built! What's more, in an L.C.F. you still get the easy maneuverability of a C.O.E.–plus sturdier frames, new suspensions and many more modern-truck features.

Inside, the L.C.F.'s new Flight-Ride cab has a level floor with plenty of "stretch-out" leg room and offers the same driver convenience you'll find in all new Chevrolet trucks. The driver has a commanding view of the road–through the big, broad panoramic windshield.

Quicker, simpler maintenance is another big advantage offered by Chevrolet's new L.C.F. models. Everything's easier to reach in the roomy engine compartment.

If you don't get the all-modern advantages offered by the new Task-Force trucks, you're getting an old-fashioned truck and stand to lose money on the job and at trade-in time, too. Come see the most modern trucks of all!



Shortest Stroke V8 of All! The new Taskmaster V8–the most modern V8 your money can buy–powers the new L.C.F.! It has a 12-volt electrical system (twice the "steam" for starting!).

Year after year, America's best selling truck!

Spotlight Turns On Disarmament

U.S., Soviet Differ On Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen disarmament documents released Friday night showed Russia and the Allies as far apart as ever on the question of controls to make sure nobody cheats.

The hitherto secret documents showed fundamental agreement on many counts by all five member nations of the United Nations Disarmament Commission which has been meeting at London since Feb. 25.

But they also showed a wide gap on the issue of ironclad guarantees.

The West wants a control agency in being, with wide powers to go anywhere and check up on anything, before the first gun is scrapped under any disarmament program.

Russia continues vague about the powers of a control agency. Indeed, the Soviets argue that nations distrust each other so much they would not stand for unlimited inspections, so controls are "mere formalities" and raise false hopes of security.

The split was wide open on this key point—one so vital that American officials said agreement could be reached on every other issue and the talks could founder on that point alone.

But the documents, when compared with a Soviet disarmament plan being ballyhooed by the Kremlin, show at least four major concessions by the Russians. They indicate, too, that Moscow has come close to the Western view on another point and has sprung at least three surprises.

It was because of the ballyhoo that the documents were released. Under terms of a United Nations resolution of last Nov. 4, five nations have been meeting in secret disarmament talks at London. That is, they have been considered secret by the United States, Britain, France and Canada. But Russia broke silence three times — the latest being last Tuesday when it broadcast its 5,000-word disarmament plan to the world minutes after proposing it at London.

The 12 documents released Friday night came as a sort of Western reply to the Soviets' attitude toward the secrecy pledge. But American officials said this did not necessarily mean future sessions would be of the goldfish bowl variety. They indicated that depends upon what the Russians do.

Bulganin, Red Boss Khrushchev To See Tito In Belgrade

MOSCOW (Saturday) (AP) — The Soviet government announced Saturday Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin are going to call on Yugoslav President-Marshal Tito in Belgrade late this month.

The meeting would be before the expected "summit" conference of Bulganin, President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Faure.

Tito's independent Communist nation has been estranged from the Kremlin since his historic break with the Soviet-directed Cominform in 1948.

(The U.S. State Department in Washington said it had no comment to make on the development. It was learned, however, that the Yugoslav government had advised the United States Friday of the impending meeting and said it reflected no change in Yugoslavia's policy of good and cordial relations with the West.)

The announcement said Khrushchev and Bulganin would go to Belgrade with other Soviet officials at the end of May.

In recent months, however, there has been a new attitude, with both sides seeking to "normalize" relations. Tito had never ceased to insist that he would stick up for his independence.

The announcement of the Soviet trek to Belgrade said:

"With mutual desire with the aim of further improvements in relations between the two countries and with the aim of strengthening peace, the government of the Soviet Union and the government of Yugoslavia have decided to hold a meeting of their representatives at the highest level."

Red Rule Of Terror Starts In Haiphong

DO SON PENINSULA, Below Haiphong, North Indochina (AP) — Ten thousand picked soldiers of Ho Chi-Minh from four elite divisions which crushed the French at Dien Phu occupied Haiphong Friday night and placed it under martial law.

Air and telegraphic communication with the free world was cut off. A spreading police hunt among North Indochina's 13 million residents for anyone suspected of "collaboration" with Ho's enemies was extended into the port of Haiphong.

In the last hours of the French withdrawal, their commander, Gen. Rene Cogny, landed by helicopter on the Quay Pasquier where troops were boarding transports and thanked them for their "hard and courageous fight."

He told them they had not lost the war against communism—that this was done in diplomatic maneuvering that ended in the Geneva peace settlement, calling for surrender of all North Indochina down to the 17th parallel to the Vietminh.

By Monday morning, the Vietminh will take over four little islands in the bay and the Do Son Peninsula, writing the end to the last vestige of French control in North Indochina.

Before the last of the French expeditionary corps had vanished from the heart of the once gay maritime hub of Haiphong, an order was broadcast for the people to engage in self-denunciation—and to denounce others who had helped in the fight against Ho.

(Peiping radio announced that Vietminh troops reached the wharf area and "Haiphong was completely liberated" at 4 p.m., Friday.

("The people in Haiphong enthusiastically welcomed the liberation of the city," the broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said.

The word went out as Ho's soldiers moved in with fixed bayonets that French colonialism is dead, that the great enemy now is "American imperialism."

People were warned that every act against Ho's government or attempts to destroy internal security would receive swift punishment, possibly death.

They were told to show up Saturday for a "victory parade" and would have their instructions how much and when to cheer.

They were told that new, heavy taxes would be imposed on every rice grower, every tradesman, every commercial activity to build up the economy of the new government.

Charge Auditor Cashed $65,200 In Stolen Bonds

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago accountant who has audited records for reputed hoodlums was charged Friday with cashing $65,200 in stolen, forged government bonds.

Arrested by Secret Service agents in his office at 10 S. LaSalle St. in the loop financial district, William M. Brantman, 62, was released on $2,500 bond pending arraignment May 18.

Harry D. Anheirer, chief of the Secret Service office in Chicago, said Brantman had cashed the securities, most of them $1,000 denomination "E" bonds, at the Belmont National Bank of Chicago. Brantman has an account at the bank.

The bonds, Anheier said, were identified as part of a $90,000 parcel taken in a burglary from the office of Charles E. England, head of the Plainville Machine Works at Plainville, Ind., Jan. 2, 1954. Also taken in the burglary was $2,000 cash.

U.S. Newsman Killed In Rioting In Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP)—A score of new strikes hit Singapore Friday in the wake of rioting — officially described as conforming closely to a Communist pattern—that cost the lives of American correspondent Gene Symonds and two Chinese.

All the British colony's bus transport and a large section of its industry was paralyzed, though the violence that flared Thursday slacked off. The British moved thousands of steel-helmeted Gurkha and Malayan troops into emergency positions.

In Washington, a spokesman said the U. S. State Department is "greatly grieved and shocked" at reports of the death of Symonds, United Press manager for Southeast Asia. A decision on whether a protest will be made, he said, will have to await further details.

In New York, Frank H. Bartholomew, president of the United Press, said UP wants an explanation from the Singapore government "of why its police apparently wtched Symonds being attacked without rendering assistance and why other police in the vicinity permitted him to lie unattended for a half hour until two Chinese finally drove up in a truck and took him to a hospital."

AIR SEARCH PRACTICE

CHICAGO (AP)—Some 200 private planes will join in a practice air search mission Sunday.

The Civil Air Patrol said Friday 400 pilots and observers, 200 communications personnel and 300 ground personnel of the Illinois Wing will participate.

The main base of operations will be at Mt. Hawley Airport, Peoria, and a secondary base will be at Vandalia.

The Air Force will hide simulated wrecked aircraft somewhere in the state and the CAP will be alerted as in an actual air disaster.

Although the Indians used corn in most forms before the coming of the white men, they did not produce corn flakes, says the National Geographic Society.

Woman Dies In Fall From Train, Mother Disappears

NEW YORK (AP)—A young woman plunged to her death from a Chicago-New York express train Friday. Her mother disappeared from the train about the same time.

Hours later, state police found the mother, Celia Freeman, 56, of New York, wandering along a highway near the railroad—dirty, disheveled and incoherent.

They questioned her but could get little information to shed light on the stranger-than-fiction drama that led to her daugher's death.

The daughter, about 20, later was identified as Ruth Papazian. She had an Army identification card issued at Camp Carson, Colo.

Army authorities at Camp Carson said she was the wife of George Papazian, a medical aid corpsman who had been discharged there on March 9. He had a Bronx home address.

Papazian could not be located and apparently was not on the train with the women.

An Army spokesman said a former landlady of the Papazians said Mrs. Papazian once tried to commit suicide by jumping off a fire escape. Her husband restrained her. They had been married about six years.

Railroad and state police reconstructed the tangled chain of events this way:

The mother and daughter boarded the New York Central's Pacemaker at East Cleveland. Trainmen said they were acting strangely.

As the train sped down the Hudson from Albany, they restrained the pair several times from opening outside vestibule doors.

South of Poughkeepsie, a train attendant found a vestibule door open. A few moments later another door was found open, on the opposite side of the train and in another car.

Just then a lounge car attendant at the rear of the train glanced out and saw a woman, who proved to be young Mrs. Papazian, sprawled alongside the tracks.

The train halted a few minutes later at Harmon, some 30 miles north of New York City.

The mother was nowhere to be found.

Police quickly located the mortally injured girl. She died in Peekskill Hospital.

The search for the mother quickly fanned out.

She was found a short time later along a highway parallel to the railroad near Harmon.

Railroad officials, checking back on the trail of the two women, discovered they had originally boarded the New York Central's Fifth Avenue Special in Chicago.

Illinois Releases Salk Vaccine For Immediate Use

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The State Health Department said Friday that Illinois' supply of Salk antipolio vaccine has been released for immediate use.

Dr. Roland R. Cross, department director, said word was being sent to communities have in hand supplies of the vaccine. It was manufactured by Parke, Davis & Co. of Detroit.

Department personnel stressed that despite resumption of the inoculation program no additional supplies of the vaccine had been received to proceed with second inoculations. Supplies on hand are those left after first inoculations or are those intended for makeup shots of those pupils absent when the program began.

Will Vote June 25 On 1956 Wheat Crop Allocation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson Friday proclaimed rigid marketing quotas for the 1956 wheat crop and announced that he will submit the issue to a referendum of growers June 25 for their approval or rejection.

The quotas would be designed to limit plantings to 55 million acres, the minimum permitted by law. This was the same acreage set under a similar quota program for this year's crop and compares with post war peak plantings of 80 million acres.

Quotas must be approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting before they can be put into effect. They won approval by a majority of 73.3 per cent for this year's crop.

Benson said in a statement that he took this action with regret, but added that he had no other choice under farm law because of a wheat surplus. He said that after this year's harvest, the nation will have enough wheat to meet all two full years.

Wolfson Claims Three Seats On Board At Ward's

CHICAGO (AP) — Louis Wolfson probably will have two friends to sit down with him at the directors meeting of Montgomery Ward & Co. Saturday. One will be a woman —the first woman director in Ward's 83-year history.

This won't be enough to give the 43-year-old Florida financier control of the big mail order and retail merchandising firm. It will leave him in a minority position—three members out of a nine-man board of directors.

Wolfson Friday claimed he had won three seats on the board, including one for himself. Figures released by election inspectors on the number of valid votes cast at the April 22 stockholders meeting appeared to support Wolfson's claim.

The figures were released at a reconvened session of the stockholders meeting. The Ward management proxy committee obtained proxies for 4,033,481 shares of stock. The Wolfson proxy committee obtained proxies for 1,793,398 shares.

Wolfson's three choices for the board are himself, Alexander Rittmaster III, 38, a New York financial consultant, and Bernice FitzGibbon, a New York advertising and promotion consultant.

These three would oust three nominees on the original Ward management slate. One, Edmund A. Krider, 42, Ward's president, has resigned. Krider has withdrawn his name as a candidate for director.

Warner Heir Killed In 12-Foot Fall

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A 12-foot fall down an embankment in his mother's palatial gardens early Friday killed millionaire Thomas William Warner Jr., 40, four-times-wed heir to Borg-Warner and General Motors auto parts fortunes.

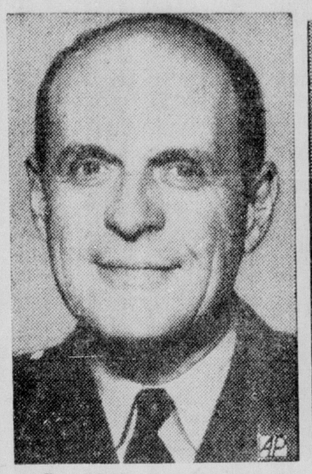
The family gardener found the body Friday morning at the foot of the wall a half-block back from the street.

Police said Warner apparently died instantly of a broken neck. They listed the death as accidental.

Police Lt. Wayne H. Bornhoft said Miss Marietta Mordue, 36, told him she drove Warner home in her car after they had dined at a restaurant and he had drunk vodka at her apartment.

"I saw him stumble once into the hedge, then get up," Bornhoft quoted her. "He seemed all right, so I told him to go in the house and go to bed. Then I drove away."

Okay Partial Go-Ahead On Polio Vaccinations



Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor will succeed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who resigned after opposing President Eisenhower's plan to cut military manpower.

Ike Names Taylor New Army Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Friday chose Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, soldier-diplomat, paratrooper and philosophy student, as his new army chief of staff.

The 54-year-old Taylor, a modern arms tactican now serving as commander in the Far East, will succeed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who is retiring after speaking out against the President's idea of a smaller army in this atomic age.

Ridgway notified the Army he intends to retire from active duty on June 30—a month and a half before his term is up as Army chief of staff. He reached the 60-year age limit for general officers last March 31, but was allowed to continue on his two-year term under a provision which permits the retention of a certain number of retirement-age generals. This had Eisenhower's approval.

However, last Monday Ridgway informed the Army's adjutant general that he desired to be retired June 30, when he will have completed 38 years' service.

Ridgway, in recent appearances before congressional committees considering the military manpower budget, has said he complies with the decision of his superiors. But in speeches and discussions elewhere, he has said that the dispersal requirements of an atomic battlefield will call for more, not fewer soldiers.

Eisenhower, when asked about this attitude, told newsmen that Ridgway had only a "parochial" responsibility for national defense —a word which means limited or narrow.

Taylor, a tall, handsome fighting man, campaigned in some of the fiercest World War II battles in Europe. Later he went to Korea as 8th Army commander, then moved up to commander in chief of U.S. and Allied forces in the Far East.

Eisenhower selected Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer to succeed him in that post.

Taylor is many things besides a soldier and tactician — a linguist who speaks half a dozen languages, student of philosophy, reader of Greek tragedy, a diplomat who carried through a secret mission into Rome to negotiate an Italian truce while Italy was still enemy country. Like Ridgway, he is a paratrooper.

U.S. Warns Soviet Threatens Lead In Big Jet Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon sounded a warning Friday that Russia is cutting into this country's lead in the production of jet powered atomic-hydrogen bombers.

The appraisal was contained in a cryptic statement issued by the Defense Department with White House approval. It was based on an analysis of Air Force Intelligence reports made after the Soviets recently flew groups of intercontinental type bombers over Moscow.

Defense officials were officially silent about the reason for putting out such an Intelligence report at this time. But it was known that some Pentagon quarters have become nettled by criticisms of both the defense program and the information which has been made available about it by the present administration.

A Pentagon spokesman said two flights of heavy bombers, believed to be the equivalent of the B52 heavy jet plane which is now in production for the U. S. Air Force, passed over Moscow prior to May Day. He said there were 8 of the huge planes in one flight and 10 in the other.

Sparkman Predicts Demo Victory Even If Ike Does Run

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala) predicted Friday that the Democrats would win the presidency next year even if President Eisenhower runs for re-election.

He also said the Democratic candidate would be Adlai E. Stevenson, the former Illinois governor who was defeated by Eisenhower in 1952.

Sparkman, who was Stevenson's running mate in 1952, told a luncheon meeting of the New York Young Democratic Club there are "more than three million disillusioned Democrats who are coming back home in 1956."

He appeared to be referring to Democrats who voted for Eisenhower in 1952. He added that a number of independents and Republicans "might be expected to change over."

Democratic victories in states and localities since 1952, Sparkman said, indicate "the trend has been in our direction."

Earlier, Sparkman told newsmen that Stevenson "faces no serious competition" for the Democratic nomination and that he would win "regardless of whom the Republicans put up for president, including Eisenhower."

URGES NEWS STRESS CIVIL DEFENSE

CHICAGO (AP)—Val Peterson, federal civil defense administrator, urged newspaper publishers Friday to emphasize the importance of civil defense.

"Civil defense," he said, "will be needed until diplomats can maintain permanent peace or until American military power can assure us there will be no enemy attack on the United States.

"It's highly problematical that either of these conditions ever will be met."

Approve 11 Batches Made By Parke, Davis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government authorized Friday a partial resumption of polio vaccinations.

After rechecking for safety, the Public Health Service approved 11 batches of Salk vaccine made by Parke, Davis Co. of Detroit.

This stamped the government's O.K. on all Parke, Davis & Co. vaccine except what is in the hands of Minnesota health authorities. The Minnesota supply, officials said, presumably is all right, too. But its approval is being held up until all data is in hand.

All told, enough vaccine to inoculate more than 4 million persons was approved by Friday's announcement.

Some three-fourths of the 4,250,000 cubic centimeters involved already has been used for vaccinations. But Surgeon Gen. Leonard A. Scheele said Friday's action means "over a million more children can now be vaccinated beginninng immediately."

Inoculation of school children was halted temporarily a week ago, on advice from Washington, after a number of inoculated youngsters developed polio.

Scheele ordered Public Health Service experts into the field to check safety standards of the manufacturers, company by company. Parke, Davis Co. was first on the list.

The surgeon general told Congress Friday morning that temporary reverses in the inoculation program in no way threatens its "ultimate success."

"There is still every reason to believe," he said, "that enough vaccine will be available to vaccinate the children in the most susceptible age groups before the height of the polio season."

The seasonal peak, he said, can be expected from mid-August to mid-September.

The Public Health Service said meanwhile it has under investigation reported polio cases among seven persons said to have developed the disease after association with members of their families who had been vaccinated with the Salk vaccine. Those actually vaccinated had not developed polio.

A spokesman said two cases were in Georgia, one in Montana, one in California, one in Tennessee and two in Nevada. All were paralytic except one in Nevada.

Some states—Wisconsin, Illinois and Connecticut among the first—gave an immediate go-ahead for vaccinations on getting word from Washington on the Parke, Davis Co. product. There still may be some delays while local authorities get set.

Although none of the children who contracted polio after vaccination had been inoculated with Parke, Davis vaccine, Scheele held up approval of one additional lot of the company's output while awaiting more information on it.

He said this lot contains 335,000 CC's, of which some 138,000 are in the possession of the Minnesota Health Department. Minnesota, he said, will hold back until the lot is cleared.

Among other states which had received Parke Davis vaccine are Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

In Vermont there was a cautious note from State Health Officer Aiken. He said he will "want a lot more information than this" and that in any event vaccinations can't go ahead before May 23.

Iowa expected little reaction to the release of Parke, Davis vaccine as first supplies had been almost exhausted. The little that was left over will be used in rural clinics.

The suspension of inoculations still applies to products of other vaccine manufacturers, Scheele told reporters. He said their plants will be visited and rechecked, and

Ft. Bliss Rocket Accident Kills 3, Injures 3 Men

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A practice rocket was accidentally ignited at nearby Ft. Bliss Friday, screamed through a motor repair building and plowed into a group of soldiers killing three and injuring three.

The dead were Pvt. William J. Harrison, 22, Cambridge, Md. and Pvt. Myron A. Baxter, 22, Allentown, Pa., and Pvt. Gene K. Martin, 27, Marlin, Tex.

The injured, all listed in serious condition are Pvt. William F. Underhill, Hollywood, Fla.; Pvt. Ralph Watson, 20, Smithfield, N.C., and Pfc. Wilfred A. Wassenberg, 24, Maryville, Kan.

Maj. Patrick Klein, public information officer, said the exploding missile was a World War II type 5 feet long and 6 inches in diameter.

He said it was believed to have been fired and was being dismantled.

It still contained its chemical repellant, however, and went off when a soldier heated it with an acetylene torch.

The dismantling was being done outside the repair building. Klein said the missile struck an acetylene tank, setting it afire; struck and killed a soldier standing near a doorway; screamed through the shop, glancing off a truck inside; crashed through a window and plowed into the soldiers outside. The spent missile later was found in a vacant area 100 yards from the shop.

RED BULGARIANS MUST WED HOMETOWN GIRLS

NEW YORK (AP)—Bulgarians living in one of five larger cities in Red Bulgaria had better restrict their marital intentions to the girl next door.

Free Europe Press announced here Friday that a new law published in Sofia says that residents of Sofia, Plovdiv, Stalin, Burgas and Russe who wed out-of-town girls will be refused permission for their spouses to take up residence with them.

Communist Bulgaria like Communist Russia is afflicted with an acute housing shortage. Free Europe Press, a private American anti-Communist organization affiliated with the Free Europe Committee, said its researchers found the text of the law in the Bulgarian Communist organ Fatherland Front.

'Evacuation In Reverse' Test 'Very Successful': CDA Head

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — An eerie stillness, a feeling of emptiness settled over this little town in the east Arkansas flatlands Friday after thousands of children, fleeing from a mock air attack on Memphis, flooded in for refuge.

Martial law reigned for four hours while Forrest City went through the motions of feeding and sheltering a hungry and frightened horde.

National Guard troops, armed with rifles, stalked through the downtown area. All traffic was cleared from the streets. State police stopped all highway traffic in and out of Forrest City. Jet bombers and fighters roared low overhead.

Radiation crews worked feverishly to determine the extent of possible fallout from the imaginary bomb dropped on Memphis, 43 miles to the east.

After the all clear was sounded on radiation fallout, medical aid stations sprung up. A field kitchen went back to work feeding refugees who had escaped Memphis before the bomb fell.

The St. Francis County Court House was the heart of Operation Able, the first air raid drill of its kind in the United States.

Harold Aitken, chief of staff of the National Civil Defense Administration, called the test, which he witnessed, "very successful."

The purpose of Operation Able was a mass evacuation in reverse.

Many large cities in the United States, eyeing the danger of a possible atomic attack, have practiced getting their people out of town. This time the drill was designed to find out what happens to evacuees after they flee from a metropolis.

About 5,000 school children and an uncounted number of adults rushed into town about noon when the first warning of air attack was sounded.

Editorial Comment

JACKSONVILLE'S MODERN HISTORY HAS KEPT PACE WITH TRADITION

As several hundred men and women from all sections of Illinois spend a pleasant week end in Jacksonville, visiting historic shrines and discussing the lives and deeds of illustrious figures of the past, we hope they realize fully one fact — history in Jacksonville hasn't stopped.

Stephen A. Douglas served as Morgan county state's attorney more than a century ago. Col. John J. Hardin gave his life in the battle of Buena Vista almost as long ago. Richard Yates served his state with honor and distinction as Governor during the Civil War. His son followed in his footsteps to the Governor's mansion. General Ben Grierson was a colorful figure in the Sixties. These and other historical facts are well known locally and throughout the nation.

But there is a gap in Morgan county's historical picture that has not been filled in. For nearly a century since the war between the states, Jacksonville has been the home of patriotic, talented, public-spirited men and women, many of whom have risen to national prominence in their fields. Their stories have not been fully told—in some instances not yet fully appreciated.

Jacksonville has played such a part in the development of the state and nation that the historians are hard pressed to keep up. And the fact likely to escape all of us, is the proximity of history itself—we are in the midst of it.

The men and women who head our schools and state institutions are individuals of tried ability and stature. The men who hold our public offices, who serve us in high places of government, are making history. Some may rise to more exalted niches as time goes by.

Our surgeons, members of the bar, clergymen, dramatic performers in motion pictures and television, musicians, are engaged in their chosen fields, from which some will rise to special eminence.

In World Wars I and II Morgan county poured precious blood into the transfusion for liberty. Men who first drew breath in this community, or who received their education here, fought and some of them died in feats of valor. Historians cannot overlook these sacrifices, some of which will grow in importance with the passing years.

Members of the Illinois State Historical Society, assembled for their annual Spring Tour, will look with reverence at places where great men lived and worked. They will find nothing decadent, however, about the present Jacksonville. History is written every day in the expanding activities of this modern city.

FORCEFUL GESTURE

The American submarine Nautilus has already successfully demonstrated the practicability of atomic-powered ocean vessels. But the Nautilus, being a warship, can never serve as an emissary bearing this country's hopes of peace to ports all around the globe.

Therefore, it was welcome news that the United States intends to build an atomic merchant ship to be sent around the world as a symbol of this nation's desire to apply nuclear energy for peaceful purposes.

No plan has so caught the imagination of the world as did President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace proposal in December, 1953. But Russian reluctance has stymied any real action in that direction, and meantime peoples hungry for relief from war have seen no concrete demonstration of the atom's possibilities for peace.

A ship powered with nuclear fuel is no substitute for a daring global plan to divert men's energies away from the making of weapons. But as token evidence of what might happen in a climate of better international understanding, it can be a forceful gesture. We must begin somewhere.

No Discipline's as Lasting As That Child Gives Himself

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

In Enid's high school class is a girl whose favor is social success. One day in their locker room, she told Enid that a classmate's parents had separated. Anxious to flatter her, Enid showed great interest in her gossip. She was saying that the classmate had always been a drip when some instinct warned her. Face stricken, the "drip" was standing in the doorway, not five feet away.

Enid experienced several seconds of the most acute shame she had ever felt. So uncomfortable was it that she fled the locker room—and by midafternoon had succeeded in twisting rage at herself into rage at her victim.

To her mother, she said furiously, "Oh, she's such a fool! If you could have seen her standing there gaping at us like a fish. . . ."

But her mother was not fooled. She lifted her sewing and after a moment said gently, "How ashamed you are."

As her child started to protest, her mother went quietly on, "Those were painful moments there in your locker room," she said. "Don't deny them, Enid. Feel them again. They are telling you better than I ever can that gossip is a bad and dangerous thing."

And Enid did what she'd been wanting to do for four hours. She burst into tears.

No discipline we can ever give a child is as effective as the kind he gives himself.

The trouble is that the knowledge that disciplines him, like Enid's knowledge of her shame, is often so uncomfortable that he shoves it aside.

For example, Jimmy is sent upstairs in his room for telling a lie. He has pushed aside his own punishing knowledge to resent his parents' punishment. He has to forget that the moment before he said he'd lost the dime he spent on candy. For it was one of such terrified fear of loss of our approval and everything he trusts that he's had to bury his memory of it. Yet if we can restore this piece of his experience to him, he will not lie again.

To restore it to him, we may first have to restore to ourselves these lost pieces of our experience. When we can re-create the scared, marooned moments we knew when we spoke our lies, Jimmy's blusters and evasions no longer can fool us. We're sure. With loving certainty, we can lead him to acknowledge the lost, terrified moments—and use it for self-discipline.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — You can drive a truck through the holes—two big ones—in the latest Russian disarmament proposal.

1. This country has established a ring of military bases around Russia with the permission of friendly countries. From those bases American planes could make instant retaliation on the Russians if they began an attack.

As part of its disarmament plan, Russia wants the United States to give up those bases. This is something Congress would never let the President agree to unless this country could be sure Russia was not able to begin a world war.

2. This country has insisted that for real disarmament—and real disarmament means destroying all atomic weapons all over the world so there could be no atomic war—there would have to be inspections teams in each country to be sure no atomic weapons were being concealed or made.

But in their disarmament proposals the Russians, while suggesting that atomic weapons be outlawed, are vague to the point of incoherence when explaining how these international inspection teams could check thoroughly enough to be sure there was not, and could not be, any cheating.

For those two reasons the Russian proposals will probably get no place although this country will give them attention. This country has to give them attention.

The Russians made good propaganda for themselves. Their disarmament offer no doubt looks pretty good to American allies who live closer to Russia, and a possible atomic war.

But the very proposals raise a question: Why did the Russians make them at this particular time? American officials here don't pretend to know. All they can do is what anyone else can do? Guess.

The big Western powers — the United States, Britain, France—got some world good will this week by proposing Russia sit down with them in peace talks. The Russians haven't yet accepted, but seem likely to.

In the meantime, they came out with their disarm offer, perhaps in an effort to offset the good peace-talk offer.

It is always possible the Russians have good intentions. But they'll have to do some proving on that point. The inclination in this country is to look for a gimmick.

Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—"Man, there are so many things to do, I'd like to live 10 lives," said big Burl Ives, contentedly unrolling a battleship signal flag.

The red and white flag was as tall as Ives, the folk singer who became a dramatic star as "Big Daddy" in the Pulitzer prize winning play, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

Burl, who doesn't own even a rowboat at present, bought a complete set of battleship flags at a sale of government surplus supplies. Wrapping one of the flags around his 290-pound bulk, he said cheerfully:

"I've always wanted a set of ship signal flags, although I really don't need 'em battleship size. Now I got 40 of 'em. Do you think maybe I could get a seamstress to turn some of 'em into sport shirts?"

The huge old-fashioned apartment in which Burl and his wife, Helen, live with their 6-year-old adopted son, Alexander, is crowded with souvenirs of his travels.

"I like sailing," Burl said. "If I didn't have to earn a living I'd spend the rest of my life riding around on a boat.

"That's the trouble with this world. Life is too short. You're lucky if you can get one thing done, let alone all the things you want to.

"I've got all kinds of hobbies. I like to write books, and I've always wanted to own a dude ranch. I was going to buy me a western ghost town some years back, but there turned out to be too many on the market. Couldn't make up my mind.

"I'd also like to own a goat cheese farm. I had 28 goats once in California. They call 'em eating goats there, and they use 'em to clear the land. They'll eat practically anything that grows.

"I got so interested in those goats I even wrote a novel about them. I could sit among those goats for hours doing nothing but watching them."

Burl is a happy fat man who says he has no fears, few worries, and keep so placidly busy he rarely finds life ever boring.

"People are the only thing that can ever bore you if you keep your mind busy," he said.

Ives says he has only two major theatrical goals left now. He'd like to play Falstaff sometime, and he'd like to make a world tour with a cameraman and soundman and record all kinds of national folk music and dances.

"But right now I'm learning to ride a new Italian motor scooter. It's more fun than a Rolls-Royce."

Considering Punishment the Tongue Takes It's Remarkable So Little Happens to It

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Considering the punishment the tongue takes in coming in contact with irritating substances in food, drink or in the air it is remarkable that so few things happen to it.

Q—Recently I have noticed a large black spot on my tongue which looks as though hair were growing out of it. What in the world could cause this? J.R.

A—This is probably the condition known as black, hairy tongue. As a rule it does not cause any pain, burning or other symptoms but is noticed by the peculiar appearance. Although germs or plants growth are usually found on the area there is some doubt as to whether these cause the condition or are merely incidental. In recent years it has been found that this curious condition could be caused by sulfa-drugs, penicillin or other antibiotics and especially by some of those used as lozengers and held in the mouth for a long time. When this relationship can be shown the condition usually clears up by ceasing the use of the offending agent. The condition does not lead to the development of cancer or anything else of a more serious nature and the treatment is ordinarily aimed at clearing away the blackish hairy growth.

Q—In your discussion of gout you did not mention whether meat soups should be avoided. Would you comment on this? R.K.

A—Meat soups contain purines as meat does itself and therefore should be avoided or eaten sparingly in the same way that one would do with meat in the presence of gout.

Q—I should like some information on erythromelalgia? E.G.

A—This is a peculiar dilation of the blood vessels particularly in the feet comming at irregular intervals and associated with burning pain and redness of the skin. What causes it is unknown and it has to be differentiated from other conditions In many cases, rest, elevation of the extremity and local application of cold may bring relief. In more severe cases drugs or direct attack on the sympathetic nervous system (sympathectomy) may have to be considered.

Q—A few days after being a mother for the third time I was refused a penicillin shot for a cold by my doctor. Was this because of my weakened condition or because of the low blood count? Mrs. M.

A—I cannot tell your doctor's reasons but penicillin is of no value for an ordinary cold and since it can lead to the development of an allergy it is often wise to save the use of penicillin for more important occasions.

Q—Would you discuss the relationship of menopause to skin troubles? L. W.

A—The majority of skin conditions do not seem to be caused by and are relatively unaffected by the menopause. A lessening of the production of female sex hormone which occurs at this period of life is said to increase in the fragility of the blood capillaries with a tendency to bleeding spots. If this is the case it certainly is theoritically possible for there to be changes in the composition of the skin during the menopause which might affect some of the skin diseases.

Take It Easy This Sunday: Cook Dinner in a Casserole

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Why not bake your Sunday main dish in a casserole. You'll save kitchen worry and get extra flavor.

Here are two new recipes from the brand new "Cook It in a Casserole" by Florence Brobeck.

Savory Braised Steak
(4 to 5 servings)

Two pounds chuck steak, ¼ cup flour, 1½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 large onion, peeled and sliced, 3 tablespoons shortening or beef suet, ½ cup boiling water, ½ cup tomato juice, ½ bay leaf, ½ teaspoon oregano, ½ cup port or claret, if desired.

Dredge steak with flour mixed with the salt, pepper and paprika. Pound well. Cook onion in shortening or suet in (metal base) flameproof baking dish 5 minutes; add steak and brown lightly on both sides.

Add water, tomato juice and bay leaf. Cover; bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) one hour. Baste several times during the hour, adding more hot water and tomato juice if needed. Add oregano and wine if desired and let bake 15 minutes more.

Easy Chicken Fricassee
(6 servings)

Four-pound chicken, cut in serving pieces, ½ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 can (10½-ounce) mushroom soup, 1 soup can milk, 1 can (6-ounce) broiled mushrooms, ½ bay leaf, 1 medium-sized onion, peeled and sliced, light cream or top milk, as required.

Place chicken pieces in paper bag with flour, salt, pepper, and paprika. Close tightly, and shake to coat all pieces evenly. Brown well on all sides in hot fat, in shallow flameproof (metal-base) baking dish, about 25 minutes.

Spoon any excess fat up over chicken. Mix soup with milk; add with mushrooms, bay leaf and onion to bake dish. Cover; bake in moderately-low oven (300 degrees F.) one hour, or until chicken is done. Add a little light cream, or top milk, to dish if sauce cooks down too much.

SUNDAY'S DINNER: Vegetable juice cocktail, potato chips, easy chicken fricassee, steamed rice, garden peas, hot biscuits, rhubarb pie, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

Some Frank Talk About Salk Vaccine Situation

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Public Health Service clearance of the Salk polio vaccine will leave everything just about as it was a couple of weeks ago—but only after a terrible hulabaloo.

The question many medical authorities are now asking privately is whether all this excitement could not have been avoided by exercising the precautions normally used before any new drug or treatment is approved.

So far only one organization — Council of the California State Medical Assn.—has dared criticize the lack of scientific discussion before the polio vaccine was released.

The careful, step-by-step scientific papers were not released to the great body of American virus experts for checking. There was considerable secrecy in its development. It culminated in the ballyhooed announcement April 12 when everybody climbed on the bandwagon of approval, including the usually slow - moving American Medical Assn. itself.

AMA in its 1954 convention had criticized "voluntary health organizations" for not consulting state and county medical societies before planning national tests of new drugs and methods.

IT IS NOW being pointed out that fewer than 18 months have elapsed since Dr. Jonas Salk announced that polio vaccine could be tested through mass inoculation of children.

This announcement was made after only four years of research on a National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis grant to University of Pittsburgh Virus Laboratory.

The first children were inoculated in Pittsburgh, February, 1954. A month later Doctor Salk announced that the vaccine might give lifetime immunity to children.

Dr. Albert B. Sabin of Cincinnati said it had not been chemically tested long enough to make sure that it was safe.

Nevertheless, that summer tests were made on 1,800,000 children in 44 states. Only a month has elapsed since University of Michigan Evaluation Center announced these tests were 80 to 90 per cent effective, and mass inoculation was begun.

By contrast, medical authorities point out that penicillin was kept under careful control all during the war before it was made generally available. And 60 years were required to perfect diphtheria antitoxins safe enough for the first national immunization drive in Great Britain, 1940-42.

It is admitted that laboratory techniques today are far more efficient than in the previous half-century.

ALSO, THROUGH ORGANIZATIONS like the March of Dimes, more funds are available for public education campaigns and concentrated research attacks against specific diseases.

In spite of these factors, the chronology of the war against diphtheria is cited for contrast to the hurried-up development of the polio vaccine.

The diphtheria bacillus was first identified by the German scientist Klebs in 1883.

By contrast, scientists today don't know what causes infantile paralysis, or poliomyelitis. They don't know how it is transmitted. They have identified three main types of the disease and they know it is more prevalent in summer.

Part of today's confusion is caused by attributing to medical scientists more knowledge of the disease than they have.

The first diphtheria antitoxin was discovered in 1890—seven years after the bacillus was identified. One woman patient in Berlin was treated with this antitoxin the next year. She recovered.

Dr. William H. Parks of the New York City Health Dept. developed methods for large-scale production of the diphtheria antitoxin in 1893.

DR. ABRAHAM JACOBI used this serum to treat the disease in the New York slums, where it was rampant and often accompanied by scarlet fever. Jacobi fought the frequent epidemics against the threat of physical violence to himself. The treatment didn't always work. This was ten years after discovery.

It was another five years before methods for making a nontoxic injection were discovered. It was 1904 before horses were successfully immunized against diphtheria in Vienna.

And another five years went by before it was first suggested that diphtheria antitoxin be used to immunize children.

Many improvements were made in the serum over the next 20 years, and methods were perfected for its purification. But even today diphtheria serum is regarded as only 90 per cent effective.

By contrast, the Salk polio vaccine is rated only 60 to 90 per cent effective. Doctor Salk himself has said that it can be improved. To expect perfect results so soon is too much.

Says Dr. Leonard Scheele, Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service: "The government will not sacrifice safety to gain mass inoculation."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The trials of maintaining a happy marriage in Hollywood are described today by Lex Barker, who is wedded to a girl named Lana Turner.

Critics and commentators decry the rate of marital mishaps in Hollywood, yet they themselves can share the blame for some of the breakups. Witness the current engagement of Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher. The gossips are doing their best to break that one up.

Barker is perplexed by the rumor mongers. Recently he was absent from Lana for five weeks, mostly on location in the Virgin Islands and partly to visit his stricken father in the East.

While he was gone, one columnist reported Lana was hobnobbing with a bullfighter in Tijuana. Another declared her ex, Steve Crane, would be her next "after she divorces Lex Barker in the Virgin Islands."

Lex set the record straight: "Lana likes bullfights. I don't. So while I was gone, it looked like a good time to see them in Tijuana. She went down with some friends of mine, and a bullfighter happened to be in the party.

"As for the other rumor, Steve Crane happens to be the father of my stepdaughter. He is entitled to visit his daughter. I was the one in the Virgin Islands, not Lana."

All of which shows how the tongue waggers can make something out of nothing.

Smart Homemaker Can Raise Family's Living Standard

The woman who is a really creative homemaker often contributes far more to her family's standard of living than the wife who thinks the only way for the family to live better is for her to go to work.

Marge is a fine example of how a stay-at-home wife's imagination, hard work and thrift can add immeasurably to her husband's income.

Marge and Bill and their two daughters live far better than many of their friends who have a larger income because the wife also works.

The reason they do is because Marge is a really creative homemaker. Their home is large and comfortable because Marge saw the possibility in an old house that cost less than a cramped little new one.

Little by little she and Bill fixed the place up until now they have a lovely home, and most of the work they did themselves.

SHOP WISELY

Marge and the two daughters are well dressed for a fraction of what their clothes look like they cost, because Marge makes most of their clothes.

They are able to entertain often, because a dinner for eight doesn't wreck the budget. Marge has learned all she can about cooking and knows how to use sauces and seasonings to turn low cost food into delicious dishes.

Because homemaking is a full-time job for Marge she doesn't cut expensive corners or shop hurriedly without comparing prices. She gets the most for every dollar she spends.

Often whether or not a wife feels she has to go to work to improve the family's living standards depends not so much on what her husband earns as how well she is able to manage on what he makes.

CARL E. ROBINSON, Jacksonville attorney, was the speaker yesterday noon at the luncheon meeting which launched the annual spring tour of the Illinois State Historical society. Historians, amateur and professional, from all sections of the state are here for the sessions which will conclude at Annie Merner chapel tonight.

Robinson spoke on "National Figures Associated with Jacksonville."

The two-day tour of historic Jacksonville will conclude with a meeting at Annie Merner chapel tonight.

THREE LEADERS of the Illinois State Historical society, which opened its annual two-day spring tour here yesterday, are shown studying the full schedule planned for them.

Bestor is a professor of history at the University of Illinois. Hickey, a farmer whose hobby is history, was nationally acclaimed earlier this year for his work on Lincoln's account books found in old records of the Springfield Marine bank.

Carl Robinson Speaks At Luncheon Meeting Of State Historians

Carl E. Robinson, Jacksonville attorney, was the speaker at noon Friday as the Illinois State Historical society opened its annual two-day spring tour here. The luncheon was held at Grace Methodist church.

Robinson spoke on "National Figures Associated with Jacksonville."

"Many notable figures in U. S. history have been here, chiefly to make political speeches," Robinson declared. "I will mention them briefly, but I wish to devote most of my time to four men who were associated with Jacksonville and who were later claimed by history."

Daniel Webster was closely connected with this area because of his investments in western lands —which he lost during the panic of 1837, Robinson said. He was here during June of 1837, the guest of Gov. Joseph Duncan, and he attracted a large crowd when he spoke at a barbecue arranged in his honor.

Stephen A. Douglas made his first political speech in Jacksonville when he defended the administration of Andrew Jackson.

"He had come here when a very young man and had read law under our first attorney, Murray McConnel, whose office was on Main street where the Buick garage now stands. He was soon admitted to the bar, something that can't happen today, but then of course he never knew much law. He was very ambitious politically and his ambitions soon took him to Springfield and then to Chicago."

Lincoln and Herndon

"Abraham Lincoln was well known in Jacksonville as a politician and a lawyer. He had many friends here. Herndon, his law partner, attended Illinois College and was taken from the school by his father because of the anti-slavery movement on the campus. Many feel that Lincoln's attitude on the problem was greatly influenced by his views of his partner."

Richard Yates, the first graduate of Illinois College, was the man who promoted U. S. Grant to colonel and started him on his way to national history, Robinson said.

"And the story of Jacksonville cannot be written without a chapter on William J. Bryan, who attended Whipple Academy for two years and Illinois College for four, was admitted to the bar and was a lawyer here from 1884-7."

Robinson's auditors laughed as he told of Bryan's first political speech, in the Irish settlement of Buckhorn south of Jacksonville in 1884.

W. J. O'Brien

"The meeting was held at Buckhorn school. The precinct committeeman, Timothy Flynn, introduced the speaker with 'and we will hear from a promising young attorney from Jacksonville, William J. O'Brien.' "

Dr. Clarence P. McClelland, president of the Morgan County Historical society, presided at the luncheon. Mayor Ernest L. Hoagland welcomed the visitors to Jacksonville, saying "I am very happy to greet you and the people of Jacksonville are very proud to have you here."

The response was made by Dr. Arthur Bestor, U.I. history professor and president of the state group, who said "We are grateful for the hospitality we are now enjoying."

After the luncheon meeting the visitors inspected Mrs. Tucker's plant and the Herzburger - New Method Book bindery, with local people pointing out points of historical interest in Jacksonville.

Jacksonville Gets 2.32 Inches Rain Since Monday

The Jacksonville community has absorbed as much rain this week as it received during several two-month periods of the past four years. Drought conditions which threatened this section of Illinois for several years are gradually disappearing after a series of spring rains.

Since Monday this city has received 2.32 inches of rain, .85 inch of which fell Thursday.

Lake Mauvaisterre has been near spillway stage for several weeks. Friday morning water was going over the spillway but not in large volume.

Les Boston, custodian at Lake Jacksonville, said the big reservoir is showing steady improvement as the result of continued moisture. The lake has risen five inches during the past week—it is now 11 feet, 4 inches under spillway level.

Boston said the rise will be even more gradual from now on as the water spreads over the huge watershed, portions of which were parched by several years drought.

X marks the spot where TCP unlocks the full power of high octane gasoline

By overcoming deposits in combustion chambers, TCP* halts pre-firing — puts the full power of high octane to work

In an engine's combustion chamber, shown here in cross section, engine deposits capture power that high octane gasoline should be giving you.

And with the kind of "around-town" driving people mostly do, the tendency for these deposits to waste power increases—even offsetting the extra power today's high compression engines are designed to provide.

What happens is this:

On cylinder walls these deposits glow red hot, igniting the gasoline before the piston is ready for the power stroke. This is called pre-firing—and because of it, power that should be put to work is cancelled out.

On the spark plug, shown at the top right, deposits steal power, too. Here they conduct electricity away from the tips, short-circuiting the spark and making the spark plug "miss."

But the full power of high octane gasoline can now be unlocked. Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP "fireproofs" deposits in combustion chambers, and stops pre-firing. TCP additive also makes the deposits on spark plugs non-conductive, and prevents spark plug "miss."

Shell Premium with TCP works so fast you'll feel your engine has had a tune-up before you've driven 400 miles.

WORLD OF TOMORROW

It's a fascinating thing, that globe. As they twirl it, Ken and Johnnie speak of the places they'd like to visit, the things they'd like to do. All the wonders they've ever heard of come to life for them, and it's as if they could actually shut their eyes and see the Taj Mahal, in its Oriental splendor, and the Tower of Pisa slanting across the Italian sky.

But it's a frightening thing too, that globe, shadowed by war and the threat of war, intolerance, superstition, Out of its darkness, a single light burns brightly, the light of FAITH... kindled across its face by the Church. Ken and Johnnie ... and all the other youngsters in their generation ... need the guiding hand of the Church if they are going to succeed in making that globe a better world in which to live.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pittsfield Clubs Elect Officers

PITTSFIELD — The Interested Mother's Club and the Junior Parents held a joint meeting the last of the year for both clubs, at the Community Center on Tuesday night.

A ham dinner was served to about 50 members of the two clubs. The program of the evening was presented by Arthur Yates, assistant superintendent of the school for the deaf in Jacksonville. Two teachers, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Scott broght with them five young students at the school giving a most enlightening and informative demonstration of class work in the school, which held the attention and interest of the group throughout.

An election of officers was held by both clubs, for the IMC president, Mrs. Stanley Ionson; vice president, Mrs. George Webel; secretary, Mrs. Richard Synold; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Emrick. For the Junior Parents, president, Mrs. John Akin; vice president, Mrs. Keith Dodd; treasurer, Mrs. Roy Donohoo, Jr.; secretary, Mrs. Carl Riley. Both clubs have sponsored many projects for children during the year.

THEY moved all of Friday night, hid away the daylight of Saturday on a tiny swamp isle. With dark they moved again, ploughing the night away through the calf-deep mire of the lowlands. Sunday there was another, interminable, fireless camp, so close to the hamlet of Marysburg they could hear the church bells tolling the sun down.

Shortly before 10 o'clock they blundered on an outlying hencoop. They caught three of the chickens before the baying of the farmer's dog sent them back into the endless swamp. The fowl were torn bodily in half, devoured raw—the first food in 48 hours. Bob could not make it. Cole ate Bob's share on top of his own, forcing the slimy, raw flesh down, locking his jaw to keep it there. His strength had to be fed.

At 2 a. m., three miles north of Mankato, they reached an abandoned farmhouse. Human flesh could stand no more. They had been on the retreat four days and three nights, were still less than 50 miles from Northfield. But the last 36 of those had been covered in 15 hours, on foot, with no food other than the sickening flesh of three summer-molted Dominicker hens. Stonewall Jackson would have been proud.

The torrential rains sluiced on.

You can still hear about that rain in Northfield. Beginning on the night of the robbery, it fell steadily for 12 consecutive days. By the time Jesse and his men reached the Mankato farmhouse, every tributary stream in southern Minnesota was out of its banks. They were cut off at last, not by any cordon of human pursuers, but by an impassable posse of swollen creeks and flooded lowlands.

All day Monday, Monday night, and Tuesday until dusk, they stayed inside the house. Charlie Pitts and Frank James forayed out late Tuesday night, returned with five more chickens. This time a small fire was risked. Bob had to eat.

Cole tore out the living room partition with his bare hands, kindled the blaze in the center of the front parlor floor. The molding horseblankets were hung across the paneless windows, their owners sleeping uncovered on the pine floor. There was no dissent. By now the light of a fire meant more to the inner man than did the warmth of a wet blanket to the outer.

The last of the chicken was rationed out and recooked at dusk, Wednesday. The bones were cracked and marrow sucked to the wingtip, the shanks and scaly feet eaten to the tonenail. They awaited full night, strengthened by the food and the sheltered respite from the incessant rain. After an hour, Jesse said he was "going out on a scout," and that "some action would be taken on his return." He then talked guardedly to Frank for five minutes, and left.

They waited his return with mixed feelings.

Frank had not said 10 words since leaving Northfield. Pitts and Jim Younger had been equally glum. Bob was still irrational with fever and none in the dreary room but knew he had traveled his last mile.

• • •

COLE, the indomitable, still stood head and shoulders the tallest of them all.

Since saying he would walk with Jesse, he had done just that. If a man stumbled in the dark, it was Cole who helped him up, who slapped his muddy buttocks and grinned him on. If a path was lost in the rain and Jesse hesitated in the lead, it was Cole who moved up beside him, pointing the way.

At length, Jesse returned.

He said he had gone down to the farm where Frank and Charlie had got the chickens. He had had no trouble finding it from Frank's directions. Down there, he had stalked the farmer to the barn, meaning to take him from behind and force him to bring them up some food, and some bandages for Jim and Cole and Bob. But as he was about to move, a posse had ridden into the barnyard. The men were from Mankato. What they had to say stopped any idea of jumping the farmer. Jesse had been so close he had heard every word.

The German Lake surround had just closed in on the three tied horses they had left behind. The word now was that Jesse and his men had walked out of the trap, had a long, four-day start, were undoubtedly safely on their way to Missouri by this time.

The Pinkertons and a few odd posses of die-hard local deputies were still on the lookout for them, but the big bulk of the more than 1000 men who had been in the field as of Sunday night had given up.

"Boys!" he concluded, eyes flicking savagely, "we've got one chance now. One chance!"

"What are you talking about, Dingus?" Cole asked quietly.

"You know what I'm talking about," Jesse said. "We cain't make it toting Bob."

Cole let him finish it, trying to see his side of it, knowing, too, that the others must be thinking the same thing, or close to it.

"All right," he said at last. "You all go on. But I cain't do it. I cain't leave him here, bad hurt and by himself. You go along, that's only fair. Me and Jim will stick with Bob and bring him along as best we can. We'll try to stay with you, near as we can manage. But we ain't leaving him."

"You got to," rasped Jesse. "One way or the other. We cain't have him tagging along no more."

"What do you mean, one way or the other?" Cole stood up slowly.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEMBER WRITES A BOOK

Attending today's Spring Tour Meeting in Jacksonville of the Illinois State Historical Society is Lowell M. Greenlaw of Chicago, author of

GEORGIA FAYE: STORY OF AN AMERICAN FAMILY

This factual story begins in Central Illinois. Georgia Faye Harrison was born in Morrisonville, Christian County, in 1883. Enough is told of the coming of her forebears from Virginia to Kentucky in 1805, and to Illinois in the 1820's to depict the westward migration into Madison, Sangamon, Christian and Macoupin counties. This region in those early days is described . . . . Clay, Marion, Richland and Randolph counties in the south, and Coles County to the east (where the author was born at Mattoon) all figure in the story. . . . . From 1905 the family home was in Chicago, and the book contains an unusual record of the development of that city. . . . . Travel, history and happy family life characterize the story. Readers enthusiastically commend this book, published last December by Exposition Press Inc., New York, 600 pages, $5.00. Book stores in many cities and towns have it on sale.

August Derleth, distinguished author, said in his excellent review in the Madison, Wisconsin, Capital Times, April 14:

"GEORGIA FAYE is an account marked by both vitality and human warmth; . . . it is the story of how an average American family lived for the first half of the present century, and, as such, it is not only biography but valuable social history as well."

It will be reviewed in the Summer Issue of the Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society.

Pittsfield Board Votes To Support High School Band

PITTSFIELD—The Board of Education of Pittsfield School District No. 10 met in the office of Superintendent Harold Voshall Monday night.

Two former teachers in the elementary schools of this city, Mrs. Gene Garrison and Mrs. Maxine Johnson, who have been on leave of absence, were re-employed to teach in the second grade. Walter Dean Winter, son of Mrs. Alice Winter, was employed as teacher for the 6th grade here, to assist also in physical education. His wife was also employed as part time teacher of home economics in the high school.

A committee from the Band Boosters Club appeared before the board asking for assistance with band finances. The club is greatly interested in purchasing new uniforms and some band instruments, and also is acquiring some assistance for David Brunberg, band leader and teacher, whose schedule is crowded. They proposed making a strenuous effort themselves to raise funds for the purpose of assisting in band finances and problems, and the board agreed upon consideration, to meet any funds they might raise for the purpose and also to allocate ten percent of all gate receipts from athletic events to the fund. The offer of the board was gratefully accepted.

Also appearing before the board was a delegation of residents of South Monroe street, one of the approaches to the new high school which will be opened next fall. This committee asked that the street, when opened at its dead end, be made a pedestrian street only, barring automobile traffic. South Monroe street has long terminated with what is known as "Bate's Circle" with many fine residences on both sides and a boulevard in the center. No action was taken by the board, which has many problems anent the opening of streets to the new school building before it.

DINNER HONORS YOUTH LEAVING FOR AIR FORCE

ASHLAND—Mrs. Nellie Milstead entertaised at a 6 o'clock dinner Tuesday evening in honor of her grandson, Herbie Pierce, who will leave the first of next week for San Antonio, Tex. to attend the officers cadet school for his basic training in the Air Force.

Those present at the occasion were Paul Miles of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Thompson, Peggy Reside and Billy Drake.

The 13 billion dollars that the United States spent for defense in 1947 was a larger dollar total than it spent for military uses in the peak year of World War I.

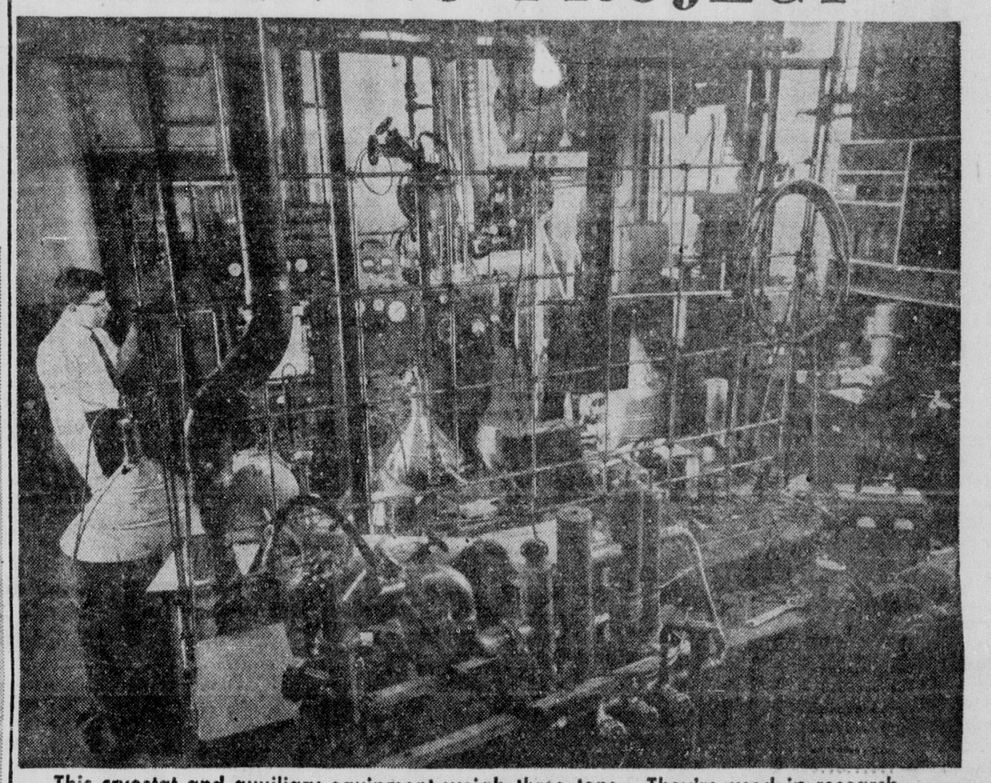
A MOVING PROJECT



This cryostat and auxiliary equipment weigh three tons. They're used in research.

IS your family moving to a new location this year? If so, don't think it's quite a big job, at least not when compared with the one undertaken by Westinghouse labratories. They are moving some 50,000 pieces of equipment (10,000 of which are major items) from Forest Hills, Pa., to nearby Churchill Borough. Schedule calls for 500 trips, or an average of one trip every hour for three months on an eight-hour working day basis. Take the cryostat, for example. It's a king-sized refrigerator that plunges temperatures down to 450 degrees Fahrenheit below zero. It weighs about 6,000 pounds. It occupies the space necessary for six average home kitchens and requires about 1,000 feet of plumbing and wiring. It takes six men and four weeks to disconnect and reconnect it. Feel any better now, movers?

Sensitive microscope goes along with heavier pieces.

Giants Nip Cards 4-3 In 10th; Yanks Jar Tigers 5-2

Willie May's Homer Breaks Up Haddix, McCall Pitching Dual

ST.LOUIS (AP)—Willie Mays' tenth-inning homer gave the New York Giants their fourth straight victory Friday, a 4-3 triumph over St. Louis in a game in which the Cardinals had two men thrown out at the plate, one under weird circumstances.

Mays' clout came off Harvey Haddix, ace St. Louis southpaw who now has suffered five defeats against only one victory. Haddix, striking out 10, yielded just two of the Giants' nine hits after the third inning.

Over the last eight innings lefty John (Windy) McCall, replacing Don Liddle, was so puzzling that St. Louis collected only two hits, one of which was a third-inning triple by Red Schoendienst. That hit created a tie that continued until the tenth.

The Cardinals strangely missed a scoring chnace in the first inning after Liddle had loaded the bases with two walks and a single by Stan Musial.

With one out Schoendienst lifted a fly to right field in front of Monte Irvin, who caught the ball on one hop for an apparent run-scoring single. However, Solly Hemus had retreated to third to tag up and was forced at the plate on Irvin's strong, accurate throw to catcher Ray Katt.

In the second inning after Haddix's single and two walks loaded the bases Musial delivered a two-out double that scored two runs, but Bill Virdon was out trying to tally from first base, Mays to Alvin Dark to Katt.

Dodgers Rap Braves 6-2 Behind Loes

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers got back into their groove of slam-bang baseball Friday and walloped the Milwaukee Braves 6-2.

Junior Gilliam and Roy Campanella hit homers which brought in three runs.

Billy Loes was the winner, hurling a seven-hitter for his fourth season victory against one loss.

The high-riding Dodgers picked up their 23rd win and squared their two-game set with the Braves.

Gilliam hit his homer as leadoff-man in the fifth. Milwaukee starter Bob Buhl, who had given Brooklyn two runs in the preceding frame, went to the showers with the blow. Campanella slammed his four-bagger after reliefer Humberto Robinson walked Duke Snider in the fifth.

Milwaukee catcher Del Crandall, who broke a string of 23 hitless trips with a 12th inning homer to beat Brooklyn Thursday night, homered again in his first trip Friday to give the Braves a brief 1-0 lead.

Johnny Logan, on with a walk, scored Milwaukee's second run in the eighth, coming in from third while the Dodgers were making a twin killing on Hank Aaron's grounder.

Lefty George Dies

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Thomas E. (Lefty) George, a veteran pitcher in major league baseball, died Friday at his home here. He was 68.

The highlight of his career came in 1915 when he was with the Cincinnati club of the National League, he pitched a no-hitter against Christy Mathewson, star pitcher for the New York Giants.

George had been hospitalized frequently in the last year. Fans and friends donated blood to aid his health.

Survivors include widow and five children.

Denver Bank Drops Industrial Cage Sponsorship

DENVER (AP) — Denver Central Bank announced Friday it was dropping sponsorship of a team in the National Industrial Basketball League, an Amateur Athletic Union circuit.

Central officials said they were unable to compete with other teams in the league for top-flight players. They said rather than field a second-rate club they were dropping sponsorship of an NIBL team. The bank will continue to sponsor an AAU team, though.

Denver's withdrawal left the NIBL on shaky legs. Artesia, N. M., dropped out last week. Vickers Oil Co. of Wichita became a member after ADA oilers of Houston, Tex., withdrew.

The departure of Denver leaves the champion Phillips 66ers of Bartlesville, Okla.; Peoria, Ill., Caterpillars; Akron Goodyears; Milwaukee Allen Bradley, and Wichita. Akron has been reported considering dropping out too.

Central Bank's decision apparently was triggered by its failure to sign up Burdette Haldorson, University of Colorado star center who led the Big Seven Conference in scoring last season. Haldorson is reported ticketed for Phillips.

At Peoria, Ill., Harold E. Meyer, vice president of the NIBL, said that "the announcement that Central Bankers had withdrawn from the league comes as a big surprise.

"An immediate effort will be made to find another sponsor in Denver, who, if found, would take over the Denver personnel," Meyer said.

"It will be extremely difficult at this late date to secure another sponsor and it may be necessary to go with five clubs next season.

"A canvas of all clubs undoubtedly will be taken immediately."

Students Honor Iowa College Dean With New Cadillac

AMES, Iowa (AP)—An Iowa State College dean, praised for having the "student interest at heart," was honored with a new Cadillac by his students Thursday night.

M. D. Hessler, dean of student affairs and a member of the faculty here for 40 years, received the automobile in a surprise ceremony before 8,000 persons in the football stadium.

The car was purchased by donations of students and friends in response to criticisms that coaches receive valuable gifts while professors are overlooked.

A fund also has been established in the name of the 65-year-old dean to provide scholarships for worthy students.

The presentation was made by Ronald Moss, president of the student body, as the college opened its annual three-day Veishea festival.

Robert Goodale, general chairman of Veishea, said the fund drive was started about two months ago and more than $4,500 was raised in a month. The student-led drive apparently was kept secret from the dean.

"I just can't believe it," he said. "I just can't understand how anything like this could have been going on at Iowa State without my knowing it."

"Students are more important to him than anything," said his wife. "He is not like many men. He wants to go to the office."

Believes Bars To August Political Convention Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major party officials said today that as far as they know the last legal bar to holding presidential nominating conventions in August next year has been removed.

The Republicans had fixed Aug. 20 for their convention in San Francisco, and the Democrats Aug. 13 in Chicago. Both said these dates were more or less contingent on some states changing their laws providing for certifying nominees for the ballot.

Six states with certifying deadlines that interfered with those tentative convenion dates have now amended their laws calling for later filing times.

With next year's election coming on Nov. 6, the new deadlines for certifying candidates for President and vice president for the ballot in the six states have been figured out by party officials here as Massachusetts, Sept. 11; Connecticut, Sept. 1; Iowa, Sept. 12; Ohio, Aug. 28; West Virginia, indefinite; and South Dakota, seven days after nominations are made.

Both parties historically have nominated their presidential tickets in June or July, but next year they are aiming for shorter campaigns.

DP Finishes 7th At Collinsville

COLLINSVILLE — (Special) — Coach Paul Keller's David Prince cindermen ended their 1955 track season yesterday afternoon as they journeyed to Collinsville to take part in the invitational tourney. The DP thinclads did rather well as they finished seventeth in the tough 15 team meet.

First place went to Mt. Vernon with 28½ points while Edwardsville was second with 26. Following Central of Alton, Centralia, Collinsville, and East Junior High of Alton was DP with 19½ points. This was only nine points behind the first place winner.

DP results:

220 yard dash: 5—Trier
440 yard dash: 4—Hudson
Hop, step and jump: 2—Watts (New DP record) 36-7
50 yard dash: 4—Hudson
Low hurdles: 3—Watts
Pole vault: 4—Prather
Broad jump: 2—Trier, 4—Hudson
Relay: DP was 5th

DP's Bob Watts set a new DP record in the hop, step and jump with a distance of 36 feet seven inches. Peterson of Edwardsville was first in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 8 inches which is believed to be a new state record.

Other exceptionally good times on the wet, muddy field were: 10.7 in the 100, 25 seconds in the 220, 57.2 in the 440, 133-5 in the discus, 9-5 in the pole vault and 18.9 in the broad jump.

'PROSPECTORS LIKE ANTS'

BUCKEYE, Ariz. (AP) — Somebody made a uranium strike in the hills south of this southern Arizona town. Now, said Justice of the Peace Billy Meck, "townspeople are quitting their jobs and taking to the hills. Prospectors are like ants out there. There's two or three on every hilltop."

Everybody that comes into town, he said, is carting an armload of radioactive rocks. He declined to appraise the strikes.

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

Sam Jones Anything But Sad On Friday 13

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Friday the 13th found Sad Sam Jones just about the most carefree man in baseball.

The city was still agog over the stirring no-hitter pitched by the Chicago Cubs' rookie star Thursday in beating the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0.

And with the glory, came promise of extra gold for the glittering performance by the 29-year-old Jones. A bonus for individual feats is banned by baseball law, but the Cubs said the first no-hitter in 38 National League seasons here "will be recognized properly."

A new contract was hinted although personnel director Wid Matthews said at the moment he didn't know what the Cubs could or would do relative to tearing up Sam's present pact.

Although recovered from an ailing arm which caused the Cleveland Indians to plant him in Indianapolis, Jones had to dicker considerably for a Cub contract believed around $7,500 yearly.

Bonuses were voted out after Brooklyn paid Carl Erskine $500 for his no-hitter against the Cubs in 1952.

Jones, who also has a two-hitter to his credit this season, now must be regarded the ace of the Cub staff, replacing big Bob Rush who has held that distinction for several years. Jones has a 4-3 record compared with 1-2 for Rush.

The fame so suddenly thrust on perhaps the quietest man on the Cub squad included a clubhouse handshake by National League President Warren Giles, who appeared at Wrigley field about the fourth inning after a flight from Cincinnati.

"I never hope to see another finish like that one," said Giles, referring to Jones' striking out the Pittsburgh side after walking the bases full in the tense and dramatic ninth inning.

Jones' wife, Mary, who begged Sam to give up baseball three years ago because of his bursitis-stricken pitching arm, Friday was en route to visit the man who is the toast of Chicago. She was bringing their two children, Sam Jr., 3, and Michael, 19 months.

Harrison One Of 2 Leaders In Sulphur Open

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — The veteran Arkansas traveler, Dutch Harrison, and newcomer Mike Fetchick of Yonkers, N.Y., each shot 66 for the second consecutive round Friday to share the halfway lead in the White Sulphur Springs Open.

Despite a steady rain which bothered many in the field of 47 pros over the par 70 Old White course, Harrison shot his 66 with the aid of four birdies. The 32-year-old Fetchick had five birdies and a bogey.

The 45-year-old Harrison, playing his 19th year for money, and Fetchick his second, were a stroke to the good of John Bulla of Pittsburgh. Bulla shot 65, the best second round score, for a total 133.

Sam Snead, the host pro of the 72-hole tournament offering $10,000 in prizes, also hit for 65 and a tie for third place at 134. Deadlocked with Snead were Henry Picard of Cleveland who had a second-round 65 and Jackie Burke Jr. of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., who came in with 67.

Stock Car Races Called Off

The rain and wet grounds caused last night's stock car racing program at the Morgan County Fairgrounds track to be called off.

Commissioner Charles Finch made the announcement early yesterday morning. He went on to say the races would be resumed as usual next Friday night.

Wisconsin Tops Illini 9-6

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — First baseman Vic Petreshene of Illinois smashed his fifth and sixth homers to set a Big Ten record Friday, but the Illini baseball team bowed to Wisconsin in a rain swept game 9-6.

Petreshene's two blasts, accounting for five runs, broke the mark set in 1941 by Dick Wakefield of Michigan. Wakefield hit five homers in that season.

In the eighth, Badger shortstop Jim Schultz hammered a two-run homer for the victory.

Illinois collected 18 hits but left 14 men stranded. Wisconsin left six runners on base and profited by four unearned runs.

Boston Nips Kansas City 4-3

BOSTON (AP) — Pinchhitter Gene Stephens was walked home with the winning run in the ninth inning for a 4-3 Boston victory over Kansas City Friday night in a game delayed one hour, 23 minutes by rain and played under protest by Athletics' Manager Lou Boudreau.

Eduardo Lausse Whips Ralph Jones

NEW YORK (AP) — Although gashed deeply over both eyes, Argentina's Eduardo Lausse hammered out a unanimous 10-round decision over durable Ralph Jones to run his winning streak to 28 at Madison Square Garden Friday night. It was a rousing fight from the opening bell.

Each weighed 157½.

The slugging South American, now the seventh ranking middleweight contender, boosted his chances for a title shot at Champion Carl (Bobo) Olson with his blistering punching and courageous display in the final rounds as blood almost completely obscured his vision at times.

All three officials voted for Lausse by six rounds to three with one even. The Associated Press scorecard had Lausse in front, 7-3.

Michigan State Jars Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State whipped Michigan 3-0 Friday on the five-hit pitching of Walt Godrey. The victory pushed Michigan State into the darkhorse role in the Big Ten baseball title chase.

It was the sixth triumph against four losses for the Spartans and it came on the day before they take on Michigan in a home doubleheader at East Lansing.

Going into Friday's game, Michigan had been tied for the conference lead with Minnesota on a 7-2 record.

Michigan State slammed southpaw Marv Wisniewski for eight hits.

WALKER CUP CAPTAIN MISSES WORKOUT

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP)—The U. S. Walker Cup golf team captain, Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., missed opening practice Friday for the May 20-21 matches against Britain because of a severe cold.

The nine-man team will go to St. Andrews, Scotland, this weekend.

Mickey Mantle Hits 3 Homers Good For All 5 Yanks' Runs

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle showed his prowess as a switch hitter Friday by cracking out three home runs, two from the leftside of the plate and the third from the right, as he led the New York Yankees to a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

This was the first time in his five-year major league career that the Yankee centerfielder had ever hit three home runs in one game, and the first time had ever homered from both sides of the plate in a single game.

Mantle drove in all the Yankee runs in Friday's game. He became the 108th player in the majors to hit three homers in one game. He now has hit 10 homers this season.

Whitey Ford, the Yankee lefthander, subdued the Tigers until the seventh when Ray Boone hit his fifth homer of the year with J. W. Porter on base for the only Tiger runs. Ford allowed only three hits.

Mantle's three homers gave him a total of 10 for the season.

He was responsible for all the Yankee runs. He hit his eighth home run of the season in the first, scoring Andy Carey who had bunted.

In the third his single to center scored Hank Bauer, who had also beaten out a bunt. Mantle lofted his second homer of the game in the fifth with the bases empty. Both of these were off the Tiger starter and loser, Steve Gromek, a righthander.

Then in the eighth, with Bob Miller, a lefthander, in the box, Mantle lashed his third homer.

Peron's Regime Strikes Two Blows At Catholic Church

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Congress struck two blows Friday at the Roman Catholic Church. The House completed legislative action on a bill abolishing Catholic religious education in the public schools. The Senate approved a bill canceling tax exemption for religious bodies.

These were the latest developments in the 6-month-old controversy between the Peron administration and the church.

The measure on education now goes to President Peron for expected signature.

The Peron regime legalized religious instruction in the schools in the mid-1940s.

If the Senate bill on tax exemption is approved by the House and signed by Peron, it will subject churches, Catholic schools, convents and monasteries to real estate taxes.

Argentine churches have been traditionally exempt from taxation. Most private Catholic schools pay no taxes because they give free education to children of the poor.

The controversy started when Peron accused some members of the clergy of attempting to set up an opposition political party and undermine his regime. The church denied the charge. Thirty-three priests have been arrested since then on various charges.

Boys Lead Police To $10,000 Stolen, Buried By Creek

STREATOR, Ill. (AP) — Two teenage boys Friday led authorities to the bank of a creek where police dug up nearly $10,000 in stolen cash.

Police Chief John Baydos of Streator said the youths, one 13, the other 14, admitted burglarizing the Brunsbach Coal Co. of Streator April 16 and burying the money beside the creek, about two miles northeast of Streator.

Gaydos said about $10,000 was taken in the burglary. He said all but about $250 was recovered. It was buried in an old coffee pot and a fishing tackle box, the officer said.

Gaydos said the youths told him they decided to bury it and use only small amounts at a time for spending money to avoid detection.

The officer said one of the boys was picked up for questioning Friday because he had been involved in a burglary in 1952 in which $800 in cash was taken. He said the boy admitted the Brunsbach burglary and involved the second youth.

Part of the $250 went for two rifles, the rest for ice cream, candy and entertainment, Gaydos said the youths told him.

Both boys are held without formal charge.

Ted Williams Begins Workouts At Fenway

BOSTON (AP)—A cheerful Ted Williams grabbed a handful of bats, donned his familiar No. 9, and began workouts Friday at Fenway Park after signing a baseball contract for the balance of the 1955 season with the Boston Red Sox.

After spending more than an hour in a closed session with Gen. Mgr. Joe Cronin, the 36-year old left-handed slugger posed amiably for photographers and held an informal news conference.

By mid afternoon, Ted was banging drives into the seats at the site of many of his historic baseball feats.

Williams, who arrived by early morning plane from Miami, got right to work throwing the ball and batting once his signature was affixed and the newsmen dispatched. He worked out for about an hour.

"I really don't know how long it took me on previous occasions to come back," Williams said in answer to questions on how soon he would be ready to play. "But," he said, "I think it'll be about the same length of time now. I'm in about the same shape as before."

Ted, who appeared in good physical shape, referred to his other comebacks—Marine service hitches and his broken collar bone last spring.

"We figure they might not want me around after this year," Williams replied.

As usual the salary figure was not mentioned, but on a pro rata basis, it is believed Williams will receive in the vicinity of $70,000 of the $85,000 he would have been paid for a full season.

"My aim is to get into shape as fast as I can," he continued. "I think the things that will take the longest to round into shape will be my arms and legs.

"I'm not particularly overweight. I weigh about 210—probably 10 pounds over my playing weight last year."

Managers Of Marciano, Cockell Argue Ring Rules

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Don Cockell, everybody's choice to lose to heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano Monday night, took it on the chin Friday in his plead for a 20-foot ring.

After discussing rules and laws for 90 minutes—about 75 minutes longer than most figure Cockell will survive against Marciano—the beefy Briton's handlers learned they had practically no chance of getting a larger ring in Kezar Stadium. The 16-foot, 6-inch ring is here to stay in California.

It was obvious that Cockell's manager, John Simpson, believing a larger ring would give the underdog a better chance of escaping Marciano's heavy punches. However, he does fight in a 20-foot ring at home, and many American rings also are that size.

Neither Cockell nor Marciano was present at the meeting in the office of the California Athletic Commission where about 75 newsmen gathered.

Marciano's manager, Al Weill, made a mild request for six-ounce gloves, instead of eight-ounce, but the matter was dropped when it was explained that California law required eight-ounce mittens in the heavier class because of ring fatalities in the past.

Jimmy Murray, who is promoting the bout in conjunction with the International Boxing Club, explained he had told Cockell's manager that a 20-foot Civic Auditorium ring would be used but had been mistaken on the size of it. Then another ring from the Cow Palace was substituted to give the photographers a better break. It has far less apron space.

After it was all over, Simpson said Cockell would find the smaller ring "only a little bit of hindrance."

250 Track Stars Enter Big 10 Relays Today

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—The second running of the Big Ten Relays will send 250 track and field stars into action at Dyche Stadium Saturday in what should prove an excellent preview of the conference championships at Columbus, Ohio, May 27-28.

No team champion is determined in this newest of conference competitions, but the unofficial title probably will go to Michigan, entered in all six of the relays events. There also will be five field events and five individual races.

Relay races on the 16-event program include the 440, 880, one mile, two mile, sprint medley and distance medley. Two unique events are the 100-yard weight men's dash and the 1½ mile run. The dash is open to discus throwers and shot-putters, something like the fat man's race at the company picnic.

Held only one year previously, records may be established in numbers. For instance, Minnesota has 440-yard relay team clocked well under Illinois' :41.8 last year and Michigan State's sprint medley quartet has a 3:23.4 time, much better than Illinois did in winning that event in 1954.

Michigan's mile relay team and Illinois' distance medley array may set new marks. Indiana also has a fine mile relay team.

Individual stars include sprinter Jim Golliday of Northwestern; Willard Thomson and Abe Woodson, Illinois' exceptional hurdlers; Michigan's indoor two-mile champion, Ron Wallingford, indoor 1,000-yard and 880 champion Pete Gray and one mile titlist John Moule; and Michigan State's Kevan Gosper, Big Ten 600 champ.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The sharp falls of the past two sessions were retraced moderately Friday by a quiet advance in the stock market.

Trading was at the lowest ebb of the past 6½ months. The rise carried prices up around $3 at the outside in significant sections while losses were light.

The market started higher and held to its advanced level until the final hour. At that time profit taking cut in on the best prices.

Aircrafts, which have been quite backward all week, were higher at the opening and held modest gains at the finish. Other major divisions were also up at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents at $162.50. It was off 90 cents Thursday and $1.20 the previous day.

Both the industrial and railroad components of the average advanced 80 cents and utilities were up 20 cents.

Volume came to 1,860,000 shares, lowest since Nov. 1 of last year. Thursday's total was 2,830,000 shares.

The market has been in a declining cycle for the past 2½ weeks. Brokers regard it as a consolidation move. So far they have not agreed that the reaction is at an end.

The American Stock Exchange was mostly higher on volume of 640,000 shares as compared with 780,000 shares traded Thursday.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The bond market was narrowly mixed Friday. A slight majority of corporates ended in the minus column.

"Big Board" volume declined to $2,940,000 par value from $3,370,000 Thursday as corporate liens churned irregularly. Investment quality obligations started higher but profit taking during the afternoon forced most lower.

Utilities tended to ease in selective trading. Industrials and railroads changed hands on a highly selective basis. Convertibles were erratic.

U. S. government bonds barely budged.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP)—Butcher hogs and sows were generally 25 cents higher Friday in active and uneven trading. In some instances prices were 50 cents up on hogs weighing under 240.

A few decks of choice No. 1 and 2 190 to 210-pound butchers sold at $18.35 to $18.50 per hundred pounds, the top. Most sows weighing under 450 brought $13.50 to $15.00.

Slaughter steers and heifers were very scarce and steady to strong. A few loads of choice 1,025 to 1,140-pound steers sold at $23.00 to $23.50. High choice and prime grades were absent.

Cows were about steady and bulls steady. Good to prime vealers were down $1.00 to $2.00 but lower grades were steady. Good to prime vealers brought $20.00 to $25.00.

Lambs and sheep were steady. Three double decks of good and choice shorn lambs weighing 106 and 107 with No. 1 and 2 pelts sold at $17.50 to $18.00. Cull to choice slaughter ewes brought $4.25 to $6.50.

Salable receipts included 7,000 hogs, 1,000 cattle, 300 calves and 300 sheep.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA) — Estimated salable livestock receipts for Saturday are 200 hogs, 200 cattle, and no sheep.

WHEAT DROPS IN LIQUIDATING MOVE

By WILLARD ROBERTSON

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures dropped as much as two cents a bushel on the Board of Trade Friday on liquidation which mostly was profit taking.

Corn was off and oats held about steady. Soybeans were lower in early trade but later rallied on short covering.

Wheat closed ⅞ to 2 lower, corn ⅜ to 1⅛ off, oats unchanged to ¼ lower, rye ¼ lower to ½ higher, soybeans ¼ to 1¼ higher, and lard 2 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Forecasts for rain in western sections of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Nebraska was a selling influence in wheat. These are the drier sections of the winter wheat belt.

A bullish influence, however, was a forecast by the Winnipeg Free Press for a reduction of 3,806,000 acres in the Canadian prairie provinces spring wheat because of heavy rainfall. The forecast was for 19,631,000 acres, a decrease of 16.2 per cent from last year.

Selling in corn was influenced somewhat by reports that Argentina sold 2,320,000 bushels of corn to Great Britain. Cash corn also was easy.

Soybean receipts were 16 cars—higher than Thursday's 6 cars. Demand for cash beans has dropped somewhat and cash soybean meal Friday dropped to $52.50 to $53.00, the lowest level of the year.

Shoots Stray Cats; Neighbor Wounded

CARROLLTON — Circumstances surrounding the accidental shooting of a Greene county man at 5:30 p.m. Thursday tend to top the list for freak accidents.

Tom Dean, living southwest of Carrollton near Eldred, was busy shooting a 22 rifle at stray cats that had been destroying his baby chicks Mr. Dean was completely unaware that one of the bullets from his rifle struck a fence post, ricocheted and one-quarter of a mile away struck Leslie Bushnell in the chest.

Bushnell knew he was shot but had no idea where the bullet had come from—much less who had shot him. He was taken to the Boyd Memorial hospital in Carrollton where his wound was dressed and he was dismissed to his home. Mrs. Bushnell is the former Alberta Cunningham, daughter of the ex-sheriff of Greene county, Glenn Cunningham.

As is customary, the shooting was reported to authorities and Greene County Sheriff Fred Ballard started an investigation immediately in the Cook Valley Ranch neighborhood where the shooting occurred. In his rounds of investigation and questioning neighbors Dean readily "owned up" to shooting cats in the late afternoon but was stunned to learn his neighbor had been wounded.

The wound suffered by Mr. Bushnell was not regarded as serious and he is expected to recover very soon.

Approve Eleven Batches Made By Parke, Davis

results announced as soon as possible.

A reappraisal was begun Friday at Eli Lilly Laboratories at Indianapolis, he said.

The approval of the 11 batches of Parke, Davis vaccine, the surgeon general said, clears the way for handling that company's product in the normal manner from here on. That means, he said, new lots will be cleared or rejected by the government on the basis of reports of tests supplied by the company and in the light of latest information obtained in the federal reappraisal.

On Capitol Hill, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Hobby came under a drumfire of Democratic protests over the handling of the vaccine program.

Sen. Morse (D-ore) told the Senate the American people "are aware that she has fumbled the program very badly," and has been "trying to alibi herself out of her own errors."

Before the House Banking Committee, Scheele put the number of children who developed polio after vaccination now stands at 67. Of these, he said, 55 received vaccine turned out by California's Cutter Laboratories, whose product has been withdrawn for investigation.

The PHS reported at least four more suspected cases were being studied.

Scheele said that except for the Cutter vaccine cases the polio rate among the estimated 5½ million persons vaccinated is about what would normally be expected—perhaps a little less than normal.

U.S., Soviet Differ On Controls

All told, the State Department released documents totaling more than 5,000 words and representing the text of two Soviet proposals, two British-French proposals, and eight U.S.-British-French-Canadian proposals.

A comparison showed these four major Russian concessions:

1. Acceptance of the British-French memorandum of March 29 suggesting troop cutbacks to 650,000 each for Britain and France and 1½ million each for the United States, Russia and Red China.

2. Acceptance of the British-French proposal of April 19 that production of atomic weapons be banned when half the troop cuts have been completed, and the use of nuclear weapons be halted when the cutback is three-quarters complete.

3. Apparent agreement on a single control agency instead of one for atomic and one for conventional weapons.

4. Scrapping of insistence that the control agency be created only when troop and arms cutbacks begin, although the Russians never went so far as to agree to Allied demands that the agency be set up beforehand.

The concessions on the troops figures to be accepted, officials said, was a far cry from a previously rigid Russian stand on a 10 per cent across-the-board cutback.

The old Red proposal would have left Russia and Red China, which both possess huge land armies, with more troops than anybody else.

Bids $350 For $1 Check -- Signed By Lincoln To Tad

DENVER (AP)—A check for $1 signed by Abraham Lincoln to his son Tad was ordered distributed by the County Court Thursday as part of the assets of a $72,000 estate.

Under terms of the will of Mrs. Maude E. Stoddard, her estate was to be divided equally among four children. Thus, each child owned an equal interest in the document with other old letters and publications.

William E. Doyle, attorney for the estate, said each of the four children submitted a sealed bid for the check. Mrs. Everlyn S. Gourley of Los Angeles was high bidder at $350.

The check is dated Sept. 6, 1861, and is drawn on Riggs & Co. of Washington, D.C. It is payable to "Master Tad" and is signed "A. Lincoln."

According to legend, the President would write a check to Tad whenever the boy was sick or his father wanted a favor. Tad never would cash the checks, but Lincoln would give him a gold dollar for its return.

The check was left to Mrs. Stoddard by her husband, Xerxes T. Stoddard Sr., a U.S. Mint employe, who died in 1951. Mrs. Stoddard died Feb. 9, 1954.

Virginia Schools Remain On DST Over Protests

VIRGINIA—For the purpose of voting upon the Daylight Saving time for the Virginia schools for the remainder of the term the Board of Education met in the high school in special session Monday morning, May 9.

Daylight time for Virginia, sponsored by the Virginia Gazette, which conducted a straw vote, was endorsed by the City Council after the vote and went into effect May 8. There is much criticism as to its feasibility for school children and especially children of farm families who are brought to school by bus.

All members of the Board were present at the morning session except Harry Devlin. The following voted for Daylight Time for the schools: C. G. Colburn, William Dodds, Mrs. Kathleen Snow. Those voting against Daylight time for the schools were: Francis Hulett, Walter Murphy, Carl Peterson. Since this was a tie, the meeting was adjourned until 8 o'clock in the evening.

At the evening session a number appeared before the Board to request that the schools be put on Standard Time for the remainder of the term. The request was denied as Harry Devlin, who was absent at the morning meeting, was present and cast his vote with those favoring Daylight time. The schools will be kept on Daylight time.

The final vote follows: For Daylight time, Harry Devlin, William Dodds, Mrs. Kathleen Snow, C. G Colburn; against Daylight time, Carl Peterson, Walter Murphy, Francis Hulett.

Tot Crushed To Death As Piano Falls In Nursery

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)— A 3-year-old girl was crushed to death today by a small upright piano which toppled over in a day nursery. Another girl was injured, not seriously.

The dead girl was Janice Marie Singleton of Round Lake whose father, W. E. Singleton, a commissaryman 1st class, is on the cruiser, Northampton, with the Atlantic Fleet.

Officials of the nursery school at Camp Robert Small, a Navy housing development, said some 35 children were in a playroom when the Singleton girl apparently attempted to climb atop the piano from the rear.

The Singleton child and Carla Ax, 8, were pinned under the piano. The older girl suffered bruises. Death of the younger apparently was caused by a skull fracture.

The Singletons have two other children.

Although the planet Pluto was not discovered until 1930, its position and orbit was predicted by astronomers in 1914.

Northwestern History Professor Addresses State Society Group

"The mountain man was the product of environment and tradition, just as we are today," declared Ray A. Billington, professor of history at Northwestern University, last night when he addressed the members of the Illinois State Historical society who are here for the group's annual spring tour.

Billington spoke at Annie Merner chapel, MacMurray College, after a dinner at McClelland dining hall.

The topic of his paper was "Savagery vs. Civilization on the American Frontier: the Fur Trapper."

Early arrivals from America found an entirely new environment in America, Billington said.

"Free land to the west took the settler almost back to the primitive way of life before he could return to civilization.

"The frontierman who came almost to the verge of savagery was the mountain man, who reached his peak roughly between 1825 and 1845, a thousand miles or more west of the Mississippi," the speaker asserted.

Annual Rendezvous

Annual brigades for the taking of beaver failed economically. The pattern was switched to leaving the mountain men there the year around. Each summer they would come to rendezvous, to meet traders and swap their pelts for what they needed, primarily lead, powder, traps and rifles.

"Anything that was left over went for alcohol, pure alcohol because whiskey was half-water and was bulky to pack. Then came a roaring debauchery for a couple of weeks, with gambling, fights, duels with rifles at 50 paces, gougings.

"After the mountain man had gone broke he returned to the forest, the only place where he was truly happy. He was as savage as the Indian, but yet he drew upon his nearly-forgotten civilization to derive skills that made him superior to the Indian," Billington pointed out.

The speaker outlined the eating and speech habits of the mountain man and his philosophy that exactly fitted his environment and permitted him to survive until the beaver population petered out to end his days.

Introduced by Green

Billington was introduced by State Representative Hugh Green.

Before he spoke the MacMurray College Choir presented three numbers under the direction of Henry E. Busche and with Robert Glasgow at the organ. The choir sang Omnipotence by Schubert, Emitte Spiritum Tuum by Singenberger and Psalm 13 by Brahms.

The amateur and professional historians here for the tour face a heavy schedule today. They will visit the Illinois Braille and Sight Saving school where Walter B. Hendrickson, MacMurray College history professor, will speak on "Frank H. Hall and the Braille Writer;" then to MacMurray College prior to a luncheon meeting at Grace Methodist church. There Ernest C. Hildner, dean of Illinois College, will speak on "Colleges of Illinois from 1850 to 1870."

In the afternoon the visitors will go to the Illinois School for the Deaf and then tour historic spots in Jacksonville before tea with President and Mrs. William K. Selden of Illinois College. A dinner meeting at MacMurray will be followed by the concluding session of the tour when Francis X. Busch, Chicago attorney, speaks on "The Haymarket Riot and the Trial of the Anarchists."

Sangamon Jury Returns Kinnett Inquest Verdict

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—A coroner's jury ruled Thursday that Howard Veston Kinnett, 40, of Jacksonville, was fatally injured last Friday when the car in which he was riding failed to make a turn, while traveling at excessive speed.

Coroner W. C. Telford conducted an inquest into Kinnett's death. Kinnett, manager of a Jacksonville Country club, died as a result of head and chest injuries received when the auto driven by Robert W. Johnson, of Jacksonville, left U. S. Route 36, 2½ miles northeast of Curran. The car went down a six foot embankment, turned over six times and landed in a field.

The verdict made no mention of an unidentified car which Johnson maintained blinded him with its lights, then sideswiped his car, causing the accident. A statement by a state police officer who investigated the crash said an examination of Johnson's car and study of the tracks at the scene failed to indicate there had been another auto involved.

Trails Dog Suspected Of Suffering Rabies

A 90 pound dog that snapped at trees and bushes, with all appearances of suffering from rabies, was trailed through Jacksonville streets Thursday afternoon by Jesse Wight, dog control officer, then shot by a police officer who was called to the scene.

During the long trek from the 1500 block of Mound avenue to the 900 block on North Prairie street, the suspected mad dog bit another dog, and approached dangerously near school children.

Wight maneuvered the dog to keep it as far from children as possible, at the same time attempting to get to a telephone. But he didn't want to lose track of the dog, which appeared to be a halfbreed hound, fearing that it would attack humans or other dogs.

"I was making my regular rounds to pick up any dogs running at large when I saw this one," the dog officer reported. "It was snapping at everything—trees and bushes," Wight said. "There wasn't any doubt about something being the matter with it."

Trailing the suspected mad dog through streets and yards, sometimes in front of homes, sometimes in back yards, Wight was able to get to a phone on North Prairie while he could still keep an eye on the half-hound.

The call at the police station was received at 4:05 p.m., after which an officer hurried to North Prairie and promptly dispatched the suspected animal.

"The dog was running blind," Wight said in discussing the case. "I examined its eyes later, and am certain it wasn't natural blindness. The gums also had the appearance of rabies."

Wight took the rabies-suspect to the Henley Animal Clinic, from which the head will be sent to the state laboratories at Springfield for examination.

One dog bitten by the suspect was placed under surveilance.

An ordinance provides that dogs must be tied or on leash between April 1 and Oct. 1.
